

Schools may need to trim $7 million

By BILL WINTER of the Press-Record

Granite City schools may need to trim about $7 million from their $25 million yearly budget to begin reducing their operating debt, Superintendent B. J. Davis said at 10 p.m. Tuesday after a board meeting.

Noting that the 1982-83 budget includes expenditures that exceed revenue by more than $5 million—and that the board has voiced the hope of eliminating $1,700,000 in projected second-year tax borrowing—Davis said these two facts are prompting the current study of potential cuts in staffing, buildings and programs. He added——The study of school consolidations (building closings) that would be effective in the summer of 1983 is directed at all three levels: elementary (kindergarten through sixth grade); junior high school (seventh and eighth grades); and high school (ninth through 12th grades).

—At the buildings that will remain in use, elimination of some of the existing school programs and services is under consideration by the administration and board.

—Even though the $7 million in cuts would be difficult to achieve, it represents only the attainment of a break-even year plus the ending of second-year tax warrants.

—Another $6,700,000 in first-year operating debt would remain to be dealt with ($6 million education fund and $700,000 building fund).

—Such projections assume no changes in costs (no allowance for pay raises or for cost inflation).

—Administrators over the next several days will put "price tag" cost estimates on virtually all elements of School District Nine programs and operations.

—Selecting combinations of cost-cutting actions from this list, the Board of Education during the current month (possibly Dec. 14 or 21) will tell the public what options the board is studying.

—Aided by citizens' views and its continuing financial analysis, the board will decide in January the basic structure of the school system for the 1983-84 year.

That structure is expected to be markedly different than the present operations, Supt. Davis said, even though the board took steps Tuesday night to add 9½ cents to the tax rate following a public tax hearing Dec. 21.

Each penny of the district's rate on $100 of assessment provides $24,000 in yearly income; 9½ would yield more than a quarter-million dollars.

The superintendent reiterated there are "no sacred cows" in the school system, other than the preservation of instruction that gives all students outstanding opportunities to learn.

Citing a just-received Illinois State Board of Education evaluation—that the Granite City district provides "exemplary educational services to students in the community," and that "a strong districtwide support staff complements an excellent curriculum"—Davis said officials hope to maintain high-quality academic and vocational classes despite the budget cuts.

While admitting that drastic reductions are about to be implemented, the superintendent said the dilemma that has developed is not fundamentally due to excessive spending.

Granite City compares well with the efficiency of other Illinois districts, he said in referring to statistical comparisons.

One of the reports he is assembling shows steps already taken here in recent years and months to trim expenses and improve procedures.

Finance Director Norman Owca said nearly 87 percent of the current budget is devoted to salaries and fringe benefits of employees, and that most of the remaining 13 percent also involves relatively fixed costs.

As a result, to attain significant cutbacks, the district has been studying how to utilize fewer people and fewer schools, newsmen were told.

An enrollment downturn has created surplus classroom capacity, even though three grade schools were closed three years ago.

The board met for a half-hour publicly Tuesday evening before a 100-minute executive session on the personnel to be employed (or not employed) next year. Meetings held specifically for such employment executive sessions took place Nov. 23 and Dec. 2.

MAKING THE BEST of a bad situation, 3-year-old Tommy Westbrook casts for a big one from the hood of his father's car on Chouteau Island. With the Mississippi River threatening to top the island's levees, few, except Tommy, were having much fun with the water.

Chouteau levees still holding

By NANCY WEIL of the Press-Record

The levees protecting Chouteau and Gabaret islands were still holding today, but residents, authorities and volunteers are cautiously monitoring the situation as they await the anticipated crest of the Mississippi River Friday.

The river was at 37.88 feet in the St. Louis area at 6 a.m. yesterday. Various agencies have offered different dates and times of the crest, but the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers said the crest will occur sometime Friday at 39 feet.

The Illinois River crest is to meet the Mississippi today in Grafton, but authorities would not speculate as to what impact that may have on Chouteau, Gabaret and Mosenheim islands except, to take a wait-and-see approach.

Only residents are being allowed onto the islands with authorities screening vehicles at the West Chain of Rocks Road entrance by the bridge. The Milan East Landfill was open this week only to commercial haulers with contracts, said Capt. Robert Rizzi of the Madison County Sheriff's Department.

The inhabited portions of the islands were not flooded yesterday, but some water was seeping over the levee, Rizzi said, and added that three families are believed to be staying on Chouteau Island. It was reported at noon yesterday that a break in the levee occurred near Gabaret and Mosenheim islands, but it did not appear to be serious.

Low spots on the levee have been sandbagged and members of the Emergency Services Disaster Agency (ESDA) and the Egyptian Radio Club walked the levees throughout the night and surveyed the scene. "They sandbagged the low spots caused by four-wheel drive vehicles and motorcycles tearing up the levee. I cannot stress that enough. They (drivers of such vehicles) put people's property in jeopardy because they want to have fun," said William L. Eisele, ESDA regional coordinator.

Reports Friday that the levee was as much as two feet lower in spots because of such vehicles were confuted by Eisele yesterday.

Flooding renews demand for speeding GC drainage work

By GEORGEANN MEGEE of the Press-Record

Flooded streets and basements following last week's heavy rainfall prompted Granite City Fourth Ward Alderman Sharon Perjak Tuesday to seek council approval for the city to take any legal steps necessary to speed both the North Granite City and Briarcliff drainage construction projects.

The motion was seconded by her fellow Fourth Ward Alderman Warren Decatur. Both represent the North Granite and Briarcliff areas, which have been affected for years by chronic drainage problems.

The motion, approved by voice vote at the council meeting Tuesday night, was a toned down version of Mrs. Perjak's original request that payments for the two retention ponds be withheld from C. D. Peters Construction Co., Highway 3 and Pontoon Road.

Mrs. Perjak charged the company is "taking its own sweet time" to complete the projects, while residential basements flood. "No one seems to care," she said.

A somewhat different stance is being taken, however, by the city Engineering Department, and a vastly different point of view is held by the C. D. Peters firm. The two do agree that bad luck

Area white collar crime keeping FBI busy

Although there has been some resurgence in bank robberies—the type of offense that dominated the FBI's workload in the 1930s—the agency is devoting much of its effort here these days to fighting "white-collar crime."

Joseph Ondrula, the agent in charge of the 84-county Springfield, Ill., division of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, told Granite City Rotarians on Tuesday that he has regular and frequent dialogue with Madison County Sheriff Emil Toffant. The sheriff was seated at the head table, and presiding was Toffant's son-in-law, Tom Thebeau, Rotary president.

Fraud by employees, including theft utilizing computers, has grown vastly, Ondrula said in describing the process by which FBI priorities are being set.

With its manpower reduced due to limited resources, the FBI has had to make sure its efforts are productive and targeted at the law violations that have the greatest impact on the community, he told the club. Points made included:

—Fully 40 percent of the Springfield division's efforts are being devoted to fighting white-collar crime, which has been found to average $621,000 per case nationally, a much larger amount than the average loot in a robbery or burglary.

—This category accounted for 67 percent of the 159 felony convictions last year in the busy Springfield FBI area, which extends 330 miles north to south and 220 miles east to west, encompassing more than five million people.

—White-collar crime has reached a $230 billion yearly volume, as determined by the U.S. General Accounting Office. Most of it goes undetected or unreported.

The 60 special agents in the 84-county division, one of 39 field divisions in the U.S., spend 18 percent of their time in the war against organized crime, including taking the primary responsibility for curbing drug abuse and drug deliveries in central and southern Illinois.

The division's successes against organized crime this year included a long prison term for a "loan shark" who had shot the knees of five people, including a relative, for failing to pay

Police threaten to sue Madison

An injunction may be filed in Madison County Circuit Court today or tomorrow seeking a temporary restraining order to keep the city of Madison from enforcing an order posted a week ago rescinding permission for city policemen to work at outside jobs, the Press-Record has learned.

Madison Police Unit 110, which represents the policemen, has engaged Attorney H. Carl Runge of Collinsville to stop enforcement of an order signed by Donald L. Bridick, Madison chief of police, which states, "...no officer will work any secondary employment, including business ventures. Failure to comply with the above will bring about disciplinary action to anyone caught not complying to the order."

Chief Bridick and his brother, Sgt. Charles Bridick, are union meat cutters, although the chief says he has not cut meat professionally for more than two and a half years. Chief Bridick also owns and manages apartments and Sgt. Bridick is employed periodically to provide security at Polish Hall in Madison.

Sgt. Norris Horton and Patrolman William Weidner supplement their incomes by substitute teaching at Madison High School and say they believe they are doing a service to the city by being in touch with the students and showing them that policemen are people, too.

Patrolman Thomas Voloski, who possibly is at the center of the issue, owns and operates Voloski Catering Service in Madison. Voloski also is president of the Madison Concerned Citizens organization, which is challenging some of the city ad-

Venice residents want sr. center

After nearly two hours of debate, argument, numerous questions and repeated clarification of misinformation at a public hearing Monday night, 78 citizens of the city of Venice decided to combine $73,000 in Community Development Funds presently available to the city with $109,000 previously earmarked for construction of a new community center.

The final outcome was 64 residents in support of combining the funds and 12 opposing the move. The community center has recently been referred to in city council proceedings as a senior citizen center and a vast majority of those present were senior citizens.

The hearing was chaired by Mayor Tyrone Echols, who outlined the purpose of the hearing at the outset. The question before the citizens was how to use the $73,000 available to the city. He stressed that the hearing was not to decide whether or not a community center should be built.

The mayor pointed to a piece of paper, copies of which he alleged were being circulated in the city, on which he said was printed "outright lies." He contended the printed allegations stated that he had already decided the fate of the funds. Echols again stressed that the citizenry present had the sole

Chromalloy names officer

Geoffrey L. Phillips was elected executive vice president, operations administration, of Chromalloy American Corporation at a meeting of the board of directors. The St. Louis company owns the Precut Metals plant in Granite City. Phillips will assume responsibility for Chromalloy's business planning, corporate development, personnel and public relations activities, and will also be involved with operating companies of the multi-industry corporation.

William E. Stevens, president and chief operating officer, said Phillips, in addition to his other qualifications for the position, already has a broad knowledge of Chromalloy's operations. Phillips has been vice president, corporate development, of Sun Chemical Corp., which is a major investor in Chromalloy's common stock. Phillips, 39, joined Sun

Chemical in 1971 and advanced through various positions to become director of corporate planning in 1977 and director of corporate development in 1979. He was elected a vice president in 1981.

After receiving a bachelor degree in biophysics from Amherst College, Phillips studied business administration on the graduate level at George Washington University. He is a member of the North American Society for Corporate Planning.

A native of Arlington, Va., Phillips is married to the former Beverly Bartlett of Hastings-on-Hudson. The couple has three children and will move to St. Louis from Scarsdale, N.Y.

Directors of Chromalloy American on Thursday, declared the regular quarterly dividend of $1.25 per share on Chromalloy's $5 cumulative convertible preferred stock, payable Feb. 1 to shareholders of record Jan. 3.

COMMENDATIONS FOR 3 FROM EVACUATION

Marine Staff Sergeant William A. Goode Jr., son of Esther C. Tucker of 1205 Delmar Ave., and Marine Lance Corporal John R. Wise, son of John Wise of 1225 Orleans St., Venice, have been awarded the Navy Unit Commendation. They received the award while serving as members of Battalion Landing Team 2-4, 32nd Marine Amphibious Unit (MAU), Camp Lejeune, N.C. The award was presented to the 32nd MAU for outstanding peacekeeping service during the evacuation of PLO and Syrian combatants from West Beirut. Gen. Robert H. Barrow, Commandant of the Marine Corps, presented the awards during a ceremony aboard the amphibious assault ship USS Guam.

During the operation, the MAU supervised the evacuation of 6,436 PLO combatants. The evacuation was flawless, despite the possibility of hostile fire and the potential for direct involvement, Gen. Barrow said.

PICKETING RENEWED at the Town & Country Apartments under construction on Parkway Drive, this time by area Bricklayers Local 65, supervised at the scene by Business Manager Robert Weis. Their signs allege that the general

Pay scales on Town & Country apartment construction debated

"We are paying prevailing (union) wages. We have to because federal money is involved," Tony Volpe, site superintendent at construction of the Town & Country Apartments on Parkway Drive, told the Press-Record this week, trying to put to rest allegations that the contractor is not paying union scale for the work.

Signs carried by pickets from Bricklayers Local 65 at the site Tuesday alleged that prevailing wages were not being paid. Robert Weis, business manager for the Bricklayers, admitted, however, that he does not know what the contractor is paying, but says the contractor is not paying the health and welfare benefits for the workers to their union halls.

Volpe agrees, saying that the health and welfare payments are being made directly to the workers and it is up to them to deliver those payments to the union halls, if they wish. "We are not violating any law that I know of," he stated.

"What they (the unions) are complaining is they don't get the $1.05 or so that goes into the union fund. The federal government does not recognize that and we do not recognize that. We pay every benefit (required by the federal government) in actual salary," Volpe contended.

Weis alleged that the company has refused to hire local workers and has fired those it previously hired. "Look at those bricklayers over there. They were brought in from Ohio," Weis stated, adding, "Our men can't get on here. That's the way they work."

Volpe disagrees and says his records are open for inspection. "We have been running an ad (advertisement) for two weeks in your newspaper, looking for bricklayers. Not one application has been received," he contended.

We don't know how Nellie does it

We're not exactly sure just what magic formula Nelson Hagnauer of Granite City has, but it is clear he has found the secret for political popularity and is not about to give it away.

Hagnauer, 54, began his 12th consecutive year as chairman of the Madison County Board Monday, earning a unanimous vote of the 29 county board members.

The struggle for vice chairman was a little more interesting, as Morris Miles outpolled Fred Dalton to assume that post for the first time. Miles' election may show that the groundwork of the traditional Democratic organization in the county is "shaking just a little," but Hagnauer's unopposed bid shows that the power of that organization still comes from the top and the post is sound.

In addition, if the Democrats can keep their forces undivided, the struggling Republican party in Madison County will have to be content to slip a few candidates in, here and there, such as Madison County State's Attorney Don Weber, just to "keep an eye" on the Democrats.

Hagnauer is in a touchy job. He has to juggle employees who want raises, taxpayers who do not want to pay more taxes, inflation which is forcing the county budget up each year and fund shortages which are causing layoffs and causing Hagnauer and most county officials to say "No" more and more to requests involving money.

It would be easy in the top job to begin losing popularity rapidly. Hagnauer, however, has avoided doing that. He remains as popular as ever and handles the day-to-day "crisis situations" with cool determination.

Quadrants should be glad we have Hagnauer looking out, not only for our interests in the county, but looking out for the entire county while he and his wife, Bernice, operate the most important functions of Granite City Township, including highly-popular programs to assist the senior citizens of our community.

School board deserves backing

As is becoming increasingly clear week by week, the Granite City School Board has a very tough job to do and some very difficult decisions to make.

We have watched the board hurl crisis after crisis before — strikes, teacher negotiations, building closings and others — but, perhaps, the toughest decisions yet are upon them in the next few weeks.

It is important at this time that the important issues facing the school district be kept crystal clear and not muddled by personal slurs, unfounded allegations and exaggerated rumors.

We honestly believe that the school board is doing everything it can to keep the public informed of what it is doing, and why, and is making every attempt to get the public's feelings on how to best cut expenses to curtail second year borrowing.

We have a great deal of respect for these men and hope the public will give them the respect they deserve during the difficult deliberations ahead.

School closings at all three levels, elementary, junior high and high school, are being studied. Increased taxes are very possible. Reduced programs may be envisioned as the cash-starved schools return to teaching the "A-B-C's" and little else.

Perhaps we have lived "too high on the hog" educationally for too many years and have come to expect it to continue forever. As has happened with the federal and state governments, deficits caused by spending more than income have caught up.

We must all realize that some drastic steps must be taken and get behind the men who are making the tough decisions — decisions to leave the school system stable for the children yet to come.

The difference between 2 borders

At any given hour, about 350 Border Patrol men and women are on duty patrolling America's 6,000 miles of land borders. At the same time in the Soviet Union, about 300,000 troops are stationed along its 41,000 miles of border.

America's Border Patrol is to try to keep people from immigrating here illegally. Soviet border troops are to try to prevent people from fleeing.

We are notably unsuccessful in gaining control of our borders. They are tragically successful in preventing their people from fleeing communism.

Of course the Soviets don't tell their people that's the purpose of the border troops. KGB chief Vitaly V. Fedorchuk recently told the Supreme Soviet, "At present our class enemy is conducting more actively than ever before all-out espionage against our country, is engaged in ideological subversion and trying to harm the Soviet economy."

And so Fedorchuk asked for more border troops. Sadly enough, with former KGB chief Yuri V. Andropov at the head of the Communist Party, the Russian people can expect that the appeal for tighter security will not go unheeded.

Our border problems are great and the Border Patrol undermanned. But we must never forget the difference between America and Russia: Our land still attracts immigrants, and Soviet communism prevents its own people from running away.

Apparent welfare reform success

Concern about the number of Americans who have lost their jobs in the recession has diverted attention from those who were on the lowest rung of the ladder to begin with — people on welfare.

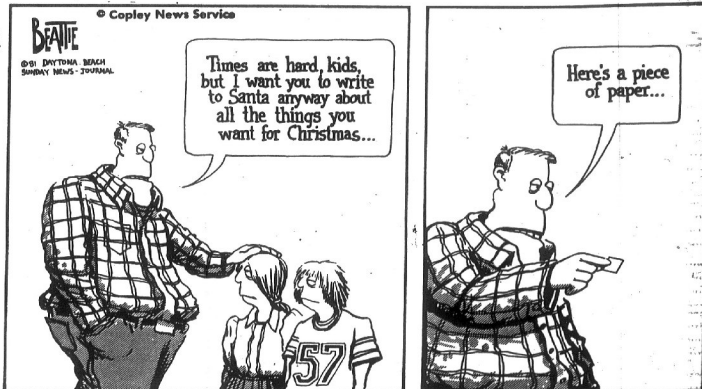

The Health and Human Services Department reports that welfare reforms enacted in 1981 appear to be succeeding. Even though we are in the worst recession in a generation, the number of welfare cases has been declining.

HHS says the 10.4 million adults and children receiving welfare aid in the fiscal year just ended represents a decline of 700,000 from the previous year, and the total is expected to remain the same in the year ahead. Combined federal and state expenditures for the biggest welfare program — Aid to Families with Dependent Children — are down by 13 percent.

The savings has permitted some states to increase the amount of benefits paid to those who remain on the welfare rolls. This was one of the aims of the administration's reforms — to increase benefits to the "truly needy" by removing the undeserving from the rolls.

What has happened to those who lost their eligibility for welfare? Linda McMahon, head of the HHS Office of Family Assistance, says they are getting along on other resources, which they could have done all along.

When President Reagan announced his determination to cut the cost of welfare programs, he promised that a "safety net" would see that those who are really in need continue to receive help. One year into his program, the net appears to be holding.

The Granite City Council unanimously passed an ordinance Tuesday prohibiting unauthorized vehicles from parking in spaces marked for the handicapped or disabled. The law applies to both public and private lots and violators will be subject to fines ranging from $10 to $100. There to witness the council approve the ordinance were a group of handicapped persons and family members. Some have regularly attended council sessions to monitor laws specific laws relating to the handicapped, as well as general city business. Their comments to the parking law follow:

Glenn Bettorf of Granite City
"I think it's long overdue. I think this city was very slow in enacting this. It was the state that passed the law first, not the city. One thing I'm very concerned about now is that fence they (the store) put up at K-Mart."

Juanita Crawley Granite City
"They (city employees) needed to do something about it. Everytime I see someone parked (in a handicapped spot), 90 percent of the time its people that are perfectly able to walk. They don't even look for the (disabled parking only) signs. My husband and I put little tickets on the cars. It tells you you are parked in the handicapped parking."

Phillip Manninger of Granite City
"I think what they should do if somebody parks more than once in handicapped parking — they should tow the car away."

Thomas Crawley of Granite City
"It's long overdue. I put tags on the cars (illegally parking) all the time. I think its a state law and it should be enforced by the city."

The Forum... Takes a different view of outlawing handguns

To the Editor:
The letter you published from Colleen Narvaez is certainly one of the best things you could have done to promote gun control. Her arguments fester with fear and rhetoric that is neither logical or relevant.
Anti-gun legislation is and should rightfully be directed against handguns. Handguns are dangerous because they jeopardize everyone's safety though their ability to be concealed. Take the handgun element away from the criminal and you've dealt them a blow that removes much of the superiority in a confrontation situation. Criminals will still do their deeds, but at least they'll be forced to do them without the aid of handgun bullets.
The public should keep one fact in mind. Anti-handgun legislation does not eclipse their right to keep and bear arms. They still can have their rifles and shotguns. This legislation just makes it hard on the criminal to deal with a public that no longer obeys. Wild West mentality to survive.
While the question of handgun control gets batted around, the public should consider one important thing. Where does the money come from to support the opposition view? It wouldn't take long to identify the National Rifle Association (NRA) as being a primary

How could a newspaper forget Pearl Harbor?

To the Editor:
How could you print an article of the anniversary of John Lennon's, the ex-Beatle, death, and omit the anniversary of Pearl Harbor? The motto, "Let's Remember Pearl Harbor" is to be remembered for all time, as our entrance into World War II.
I thought the newspaper had a saying, all the news that's fit to print. I said fit to print.
Do you know what I do with Beatles in my shed when I see one. I believe you owe us an explanation.

Captured by the Chinese and held overnight with death a matter of the utmost imminence is the thrilling experience of Lewis Keeler, 18 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Keeler, 2904 East Twenty-fifth street. The youth has been in the navy for two years and has been stationed in China all that time. The mother first became aware of her son's harrowing experience Wednesday through a letter from him. The missive was mailed November 5 from Hong Kong, China, where Keeler is stationed on the U.S.S. Black Hawk.

At the time he wrote the letter, the young sailor was recovering from a high fever and inflammation of a blood vessel in his leg, the aftermath of his capture and imprisonment by the Chinese. Keeler wrote that on Sunday morning, October 29 with eight other sailors and an officer, he went on an exploring trip to a Chinese Pagoda and Temple of Worship near the outskirts of Amoy. They were leisurely strolling about the district when the villagers bore down on them. The Chinese had assembled sufficient recruits to effect the capture without any casualties.

With dredging of only 253 acres of the 2,024 acres in Horseshoe Lake estimated to cost $470,000, a committee of the Lake Park Study Commission agreed Friday afternoon to limit the first stage of state park development to land acquisition. Based on land prices obtained in last spring's study, the committee set a figure of $800,000 needed to acquire 3,300 acres in order to control all lake front, the Horseshoe Lake island and sites for recreational purposes.
Arrangements are being made by the chairman, Henry D. Karandjoff, for the commissioners to meet with officials of the state conservation department to determine if the funds can be made available immediately so the land can be bought in the near future. Rather than ask for immediate funds of $1,201,000 or $1,414,000 for land acquisition, dredging and recreational development, it was decided to try first to get $500,000 for acquiring land to control the lake and then go to the legislature later to get funds for dredging and other developments.

Madison studies updating city ordinances to increase income

by DONNA KIMBRO
of the Press-Record

A loss of monies caused by outdated ordinances in the city of Madison prompted the Madison City Council Tuesday night to direct City Attorney Casper Nighohosian to submit a cost estimate to update all existing ordinances so the city can recover monies related to various codes, including traffic, criminal and licensing.

If the cost of proceeding with the project is accepted by the aldermen at the next meeting, the attorney will begin the long and involved process of modernizing the ordinances to provide stiffer fines and penalties for those who disregard the law. Adding city violations for some crimes, such as aggravated battery, also can direct fine money to the city, rather than the county, which receives the fines on convictions for state charges.

In relation to the proposed program, Mayor Mike Sasyk said, "I especially want to see a better anti-litter ordinance, as this is one of the big problems in keeping the city clean of all unwanted debris."

The council members Aug. 17 unanimously approved strict enforcement of the anti-litter ordinance in Madison with arrests and prosecution of those found littering.

Police Chief Donald Bridick addressed the council in conjunction with the increased number of automobile burglaries. "I want to impress on the council and all residents of the city to be sure to lock all vehicles parked on the streets and remove all articles of value from the car, as this is an enticement for someone to break into the automobile."

There was a seven percent increase in crime for the month of November, 1982, as compared to November, 1981. Theft increased from 16 to 18, burglary from 12 to 17 with seven auto burglaries reported in November, according to the official police department report. Assault and battery cases dropped from 12 to five for November with traffic arrest totaling 41, other arrests 20, juvenile detentions seven, and 25 accidents.

Michael Macke, fire chief, requested and was given permission from the council to contact the water company and formulate a plan to increase pressure and volume of water in Madison. He also was given approval to install seven more fire hydrants at different locations in the city. Rental cost of each hydrant will be $49.60 per year, he added.

Macke informed the aldermen that a plan with the water company for increased water pressure and volume in the West Madison area now is in progress.

Council members agreed to give the ambulance service permission to offer non-emergency and convalescent service to patients, when there is a need in the community.

In other business, motor fuel bids were read by John Bellicoff, city clerk, from Piasa Motor Fuels, Inc., Alton, and Golden Shell & Co., 601 Madison Ave., Madison, to provide fuel for the city vehicles.

The aldermen approved a contract with Piasa, which submitted the lowest bid at $1.03 per gallon for regular gasoline, as compared to $1.07 from Golden Shell, and $1.08 for unleaded gasoline, as compared to $1.15.

John Dutko, building inspector, was given instructions to notify owners of anyone with interest in property located at 925 McCambridge Ave., of condemnation proceedings approved by the aldermen. The real estate is empty and there has been some vandalism to the windows, according to Dutko.

On the recommendation of the Madison Zoning Board, the aldermen approved special use permits to Richard and Donna Harper to operate an arts and crafts shop and foreign car repair at 1822 Third St., Tom Dietrich of Alhambra, to operate a retail meat market at 1101 Greenwood St., Richard Frazee, of Fenton, Mo., (Dairy Queen) to allow structural supports of a free-standing sign to be within 10 feet of the sidewalk at Sken Street, and to Jay Greer to establish a mini laundry in an existing business place at 1701 Edwardsville Road.

All were approved unanimously, with the exception of Greer's request, which passed, although Alderman William Gushoff voted against it. Prior to the vote, the council heard objections to the new business as it was to be located adjacent to an ice cream parlor where games machines are located and allegedly cause traffic problems, as well as loitering by young people.

Mary Allen

Mrs. Mary A. (Bucks) Allen, 39, of Collinsville, formerly of Granite City, died at 10:30 p.m. Tuesday, Dec. 7, 1982, at St. Elizabeth Medical Center. She was ill for 10 months and hospitalized for seven weeks.

A native of Pekin, Ill., Mrs. Allen resided in Collinsville for 12 years. Prior to becoming ill, Mrs. Allen worked at Oliver C. Anderson Hospital in Maryville as a clerk for three years. She was of the Protestant faith.

Survivors include her husband, Raymond Allen; three daughters, Mrs. Samuel (Paula) Stottler, Collinsville, Miss Penny Lynn Allen, at home, and Mrs. Peggy Piper of Madison; five sons, Raymond D., James W. and Mark A. Applications for yule baskets end Friday

The overwhelming response to this year's request to register with the Salvation Army for Christmas food baskets and related aid is not being matched by contributions to the annual Tree of Lights campaign, which finances assistance to those in need at Christmas, and throughout the year.

A total of 938 applications, representing thousands of family members, had been received at the local Salvation Army Community Center through Tuesday, Captain Donald Salisbury, Corps commander, said yesterday.

Applications for aid be accepted at the center, 3007 E. 23rd St., through 5 p.m. Friday, Dec. 10.

Current donations to the Tree of Lights drive amount to $14,202. The figure represents about 43 percent of this year's $33,000 goal, and only 16 days remain until Christmas.

Families and individuals still wishing to apply for baskets may do so between 9 a.m. and noon, and 1 p.m. and 5 p.m., Friday.

Those seeking assistance are required to bring adequate identification, a paid utility (electric service) bill or similar receipt showing the current address of the applicant, or a recent receipt, and a Public Aid

"green card." If served by that agency.

Special arrangements can be made to help applicants who are handicapped or confined to their homes by calling 451-7857, or a family member may present the request in person, according to Mrs. Maxine Rutter, Corps secretary. She stressed, however, that all others must apply in person.

Last year, 545 holiday baskets were given out to needy families and a total of 527 was distributed in 1980, plus 50 others were aided by other community organizations.

Mrs. Rutter suggests that area churches and other groups wish to provide yule baskets to contact the Salvation Army office at 451-7857 to avoid duplication and assist more families.

Organizations planning to give gifts of food to specific families also may check with the office, where a master list is being maintained, thereby allowing more recipients to be helped, she explained.

George Knecht, a United Steelworkers staff representative and District 34 coordinator, is serving as general chairman of the current Tree of Lights campaign.

Donations may be set to: Salvation Army Tree of Lights, P. O. Box 338, Granite City, Ill., 62040.

Cook has requested that any persons wishing to donate items call the UW office at 877-8780.

Talking about Death with Children

An exceptional audio-visual program, "Talking about Death with Children," was developed by Dr. Earl Grollman to explain basic concepts that can lead youngsters to a healthy understanding of death. This program is now part of our audio-visual library. And we're pleased to be able to offer it to individual families for their private viewing, and to teachers and health care professionals for use in classrooms and seminars.

Children as young as three may benefit from the message the program so sensitively portrays. It also provides an excellent guide for adults, not only in what to tell children about death, but how to tell them and what they can be expected to comprehend.

If you'd like more information on this outstanding A-V program, please feel free to call us at any time.

ministration's recent spending, particularly in the purchasing of equipment for cable television and a citywide alarm system.

Runge says he will attempt to get Mayor Mike Sasyk to rescind the order. "I hope to get Mike to understand he is making a mistake," Runge stated. "I would much rather solve it (then file suit)." Runge told the Press-Record yesterday.

Voloski says the posting of the order halting outside work was dated Nov. 30, the day Voloski went to the Madison City Hall and asked for copies of the city's bill lists and budgets on behalf of the Concerned Citizens.

Sources said that after Voloski left the city hall, Sasyk had a closed door meeting with Chief Bricklick and the order was posted a short time later.

Two police officers met with Chief Bricklick Dec. 2 to ask that the order be rescinded and Bricklick later conferred with Sasyk on the request. When the discussions failed to have the order rescinded, Police Unit 110 called a special meeting and these present voted unanimously to hire Runge to represent them.

Runge has been asked to investigate whether the city is violating the civil rights of the police officers by denying them outside income, sources said. If so, charges of civil rights violations would be filed against Mayor Sasyk and Chief Bricklick, according to a spokesman for the police.

Bricklick indicated displeasure that an internal matter of the police department had leaked to the press, but said he feels the order applies to himself, as well as the other officers. Owning apartments would not count, he says, and noted he has made no attempt to stop other officers who own and manage apartments.

He noted that the city ordinance setting police rules and regulations prohibits outside employment, except by written permission, which he had previously given the officers, but was now rescinding, since some of the officers do not appear to be doing their jobs adequately.

"I feel some secondary employment has interfered with the operations of the police department," he noted, saying that some police officers have gone four, five and even six months without making an arrest.

He said he feels the controversy can be resolved for police officers whose on-duty performance improve. "If police perform their duties and outside work doesn't hamper their employment with the police department, the matter will be resolved," he predicted.

Asked about what will be done for those with outside jobs whose performance on the police department does not improve, Bricklick commented, "I'm not trying to single anyone out."

about 25 were present during Tuesday's regular meeting.

As the board prepared to confer privately, President Donald Stucke said the citizens' interest is appreciated and assured them that "we don't expect to make any decisions tonight."

Board Member Thomas Mufsky told them the board is trying to schedule its announcement of various options for next Tuesday, Dec. 14, but that it is uncertain whether that date can be met. In any case, time will be given to receive input from the public, he added.

The board did call a special meeting Tuesday night for Dec. 14 on "matters concerning the continuation of employment of staff and matters concerning negotiations."

Board Member Robert Maxwell told the audience the board is evaluating what changes should be made and probably will "go public" with its proposals Dec. 14 or 21.

The board voted 7-0 to enact a resolution related to a hearing at 7:30 p.m. Dec. 21 on amending the 1982 tax levy (1983 collection).

The new proposal calls for a total estimated real estate school tax rate of $3.526, compared to the $3.453 projected when the board adopted its annual levy Sept. 28. Adjustments are allowed during the three ensuing months.

The 1982 levy total would rise from $9,372,046 to $9,631,513, but—depending on the still-unknown assessment—total—some of the rate ceilings might not permit extension of the full amount.

It is proposed to levy $40,443 for the city's general fund, compared to the $25,443 listed in September. This would change the projected rate from 9.2 cents to 14.7 cents.

The district also would levy $106,200 for a special education building fund, from which revenue could be spent on any schools that house special classes. This rate would be four cents.

A year ago, the school levy totaled $3,239,384 and the rate was $3.38.

emptly pay back loan principal plus exorbitant interest.

Other crimes that are numerous include extortion, advance-fee swindles, larcenies, arson, and the profit, and attempts to corrupt public officials.

New tools that are aiding the FBI include revised racketeering and conspiracy laws, and added drug law enforcement authority.

Promoted to his current position in August, and in the news because of such occurrences as the solving of the Zevallos abduction, Ondrula praised the willingness of many citizens to provide information, evidence and testimony on varied crimes.

One of 7,200 FBI agents across the nation, the speaker expressed enthusiasm for his work and said it is a constant and pleasurable challenge to cope with both long-standing and new crime patterns. He traced the FBI's gun battles with gangsters in the 1920s and '30s, arrests of enemy spies during World War II, protection of civil rights, prosecution of bomb-setters and other terrorists who sought to create unrest and insurrection, and trial convictions of sophisticated criminals who employ telephone deception and other ruses and devices.

In adapting to fund limitations, Ondrula said, the agency often will play only a minor role in investigations where it has confidence in the manpower, training, equipment and resources of another law enforcement entity.

Along with such staffs as that of Sheriff Tofant, the FBI often relies on investigative work by the Illinois Division of Criminal Investigation, the gathering was told.

The speaker attributed current financial problems not only to the recession but also to a major increase in the number of Congressional oversight committees with jurisdiction over the FBI.

He was introduced by Kenneth Pitts, program chairman.

The club honored Anna Carlsson, a Swedish exchange student attending Granite City High School North, on her 17th birthday.

It was noted that the Rotarians raised $852 for the Christmas 1982 Tree of Lights campaign by their "bell ringing" solicitation last week, and the Salvation Army was praised for its response to the New Baden tornado and to flooding in this region.

Cheese will be issued on a first-come, first-served basis, only to township residents in the area. Proof of identification and address will be required, such as a driver's license, voter's registration card or a current utility bill. One five pound box of cheese will be issued per household.

In Nameoki Township, 1,500 pounds of cheese will be distributed beginning at 8:30 a.m. Dec. 16 at the State Park Community Center and the Nameoki Town Hall, 4250 Highway 162, only to residents of the township. Approximately 1,500 pounds of cheese will be available there.

In Venice, 2,500 pounds of cheese will be available to residents there starting at 9 a.m. Dec. 16 at the Township Office, 1505 Fifth St.

Pending confirmation from the EOC, Granite City, Chouteau Township and Madison also will set up distribution points.

Additional GC Council actions

Seventh Ward Alderman Michael Modrusic, chairman of the planning and zoning committee, recommended that a request for commercial zoning at 2740 Madison Ave. be denied. Modrusic formally presented the petitions of about 42 residents on Madison Avenue and Iowa Street protesting the request, which was submitted by Attorney Terry Francis Modrusic's recommendation concurred with an earlier finding by the city's Planning Commission.

Superintendent of Streets Mac Warfield told council members the city suffered two sewer breaks during the heavy rainfall last week, one on Faith Avenue and the other on Lincoln Avenue. The immediate result will be overtime expenses for street department employees, who battled the breaks. Warfield estimated overtime costs of $6,000 for just the Faith Avenue break, which had to be bypassed, rather than repaired.

Fifth Ward Alderman Jake Varadian received council approval to bring in an ordinance opening the 190 and 2000 blocks of Grand Avenue to two-way traffic. The alderman said he sent petitions around the area and only one resident, among those home during the survey objected to the change. Fourth Ward Alderman Sharon Perjak also was successful in receiving council permission to bring in an ordinance for a five-ton load limit posting on Sinclair Street.

Rains don't stop plans

The recent heavy rains, which caused muddy, high-water conditions throughout the area, could not stop Boy Scout Troop 7 from holding a planned overnight event, but the troop was forced to change its scheduled barn camping adventure to a back-up event that proved much drier.

For the second time in a week, the Scouts traveled to the Checkersome to attend a "Treasure Hunt" game. The troop was among 14,000 fans to witness the Golden Bay Earthquakes defeat the Steamers by a score of 7 to 5. While at the game, a Treasure Hunt was conducted. Mary Brazel, the winner, returned to the Scout's tent with the signature of the Rev. Seamus Shortall, pastor of Sacred Heart Church. Shortall's signature was a miniature soccer ball. After the game, the Scouts returned to the troop's meeting room to continue the overnight event.

On Saturday, the troop cooked its meals on the parish grounds of St. Joseph Catholic Church and completed its pioneering project.

The day's activities included the making of a coracle, a device invented by the ancient Britons to use when crossing a stream. The wreath-shaped frame of the coracle was made from twigs and branches. The Scouts plan to display the completed project at the troop's "Circus '83" this spring.

The day ended with a "Trio Tourney" sports event, in which the Leadership Corps defeated the Flaming Arrow Patrol Scouts.

The Scouts will host a "Breakfast With Santa" on Sunday, Dec. 12, from 7 a.m. to 1 p.m. at St. Joseph Catholic Church, 2101 State St. An all-you-can-eat pancake and sausage breakfast will be served, with tickets available at the door or from any Scout in the troop. Tickets are $2.75 for adults and $1.50 for children ages 5 to 12. Children under age 4 will be admitted free.

Selected crafts will be available, as will pictures with Santa Claus.

STEREO TAKEN

Johnnie B. McCollum of Fifth Street in Madison reported to county deputies that someone stole a stereo eight-track cassette player and turntable from his home. Entry was gained by throwing a large brick through a window in a door.

PRESS-RECORD
 AIDS GET RESULTS

Several days of clear weather and the efforts of 132 volunteers who placed 15,000 sandbags in spots on the levee Sunday were largely responsible for keeping the flood waters contained, according to Ron Marks, one of three Chouteau, Nameoki and Venice levee commissioners.

With the prediction last Friday that flooding was imminent, about 38 families started to move personal belongings from the island. At that point, the river rose a foot in one hour.

"We couldn't have held it if it (had kept) coming like that," Marks said. While many residents of the islands remember the record flood in 1973 and have experienced similar situations, this instance is different, Eisele said because, normally, floods occur over a period of a week or more. The present high water, however, occurred within "just a few days," he said.

Eisele, who is in charge of emergency services to 11 counties has traveled to various sites of flooding and to New Baden, Ill., to inspect tornado damage there. He said that Gov. James Thompson flew over flood-damaged areas north of here and Erie Jones, ESDA state director, flew over the southern part of the state.

Eisele said he did not know what parts of Southern Illinois will be declared disaster areas by Governor Thompson by the time the crest passes. Several counties, not including Madison County, already have been declared disaster areas.

With the weather has played a big part in the length of time being taken to finish those construction jobs, as well as several changes in the original work order.

"We usually get a job done on time," Virginia Peters, part-owner of C. D. Peters, said Wednesday.

The North Granite drainage project was awarded to the company in December, 1980, and was to be completed by Sept. 4, 1981. Construction on the Briarcliff project began March 2 this year. According to Edward Schultz, highway and traffic engineer with the Granite City Engineering Department, the North Granite project is essentially completed and about 60 to 70 percent of the work at the Briarcliff site has been accomplished, to date.

Although some in the North Granite area had to use boats to wade to their cars last year, they should not count on the nearby retention pond relieving the condition any more than it already has. Schultz said improvement in the drainage has taken place since the project was completed, but to prevent street and yard flooding, some type of future drainage system will be needed to connect residential areas to the ditch running into the drainage pond.

Now streets first must fill with water before the water flows into the ditch. Some low-lying residential yards

Residents were still being evacuated yesterday from Calhoun County and Eisele commended volunteers, local people and the ESDA for doing "a tremendous job" of moving residents in the flood areas, particularly in Grafton.

Ten families still were in the process of moving belongings from the Chouteau area yesterday. At least one resident took a flatbed truck containing bales of hay onto the island to place on the low, muddy spots.

Maj. Sam Hatton, commander of the U.S. Army Installation here, said that about 12 families have stored personal belongings in a warehouse on the base. Other residents reported they have stored items in garages and homes of friends and families. All those evacuated apparently found alternative places to stay and none required the cots that were set up in the base gymnasium.

The Great River Road (Route 3) remained closed from Illinois Route 100 to Route 16 in Jersey County. The Coast Guard Tuesday closed 43 miles of the Mississippi River to all traffic, in order to keep the flood waters from damaging construction at the new Alton locks and dam, located two miles downstream from the present locks.

Construction was halted and heavy equipment moved from the area when it was determined that river traffic in several counties would threaten the confederation, which surrounds the construction site.

naturally form their own holding ponds for the water.

Completion of the Briarcliff project, begun in March, however, is expected to substantially harness storm and surface water in that particular area. Mrs. Perjak told council members the normal time needed to construct a retention pond should be 90 to 120 days.

Schultz estimated that 60 to 70 percent of the delay at that site was due to rainy weather and 30 percent should be blamed a needed redesign of the pump house and the unusually high water table. He could not estimate when the Briarcliff project might be completed, until the water table shows signs of receding.

While he does not believe C. D. Peters has been dragging his heels in the Briarcliff project, he suggested that may be a contributing factor in the North Granite project. Mayor Paul Schuler agreed at the council meeting Tuesday.

Listed in order of importance, Schultz said the North Granite City project has been twice extended due to (1) equipment delays, (2) two back-to-back wet seasons, (3) 11 work change orders with others expected in the future and (4) the contractor.

Mrs. Peters disagreed, and said that "weather is the factor" in the extended work period at both the North Granite

The closed area of the river is from the Alton Locks to Mile 160 at the Meramec River.

Areas of the flood wall were reportedly softening in the Venice area, but authorities there said they have not had problems with people on the levees. The sheriff's department has requested that those wanting to see the river stay off the levees from Hartford to Venice.

With reports of levee breaks in other areas filling the news, Eisele said, "in my estimation, from all information we have received from the Corps of Engineers, this levee should hold."

After surveying many of the flood-stricken areas, Eisele said he believes that "from Calhoun County down, everybody is in real good shape from the standpoint that they've done everything they can do."

He said that the evacuated residents of the islands probably will not be allowed to move back until next week, at the earliest. The river is expected to remain high until then and sandbagging may resume in some areas of the levee.

The United Way is seeking donations of furniture, clothing and other items for flood victims, George Cook, UW spokesman said.

Items can be picked up and stored by the UW until residents are able to move back into their homes. Persons interested in donating items to flood victims or people seeking information about obtaining donations may call the UW at 877-6780, Cook said.

and Briarcliff sites. She cited the recent award given company for service rendered to the Granite City Park District, as evidence of the reliability of the company. "I don't like this (council action) to happen for the sake of our company," she said.

In addition, Mrs. Peters said the company was able to offer the Briarcliff project to the city at a much lower price than other bidders. She denied the company has been dragging its feet or could have gotten the project done any faster than it has.

Mrs. Perjak, however, said the company failed to let the city's request for a projected schedule of when the projects would be completed. At present, the company has already passed its last May extension deadline.

FOUR CHARGES FILED

Marilyn Turner, 27, of 1909 Spruce St. was arrested this week for failing to give information after her car hit an unattended auto on 22nd Street at Benton Street Dec. 4, neglecting to reduce speed to avoid the collision, failing to notify the state of an address change, and filing a false report. The latter charge relates to the identity of the other occupant of her auto.

responsibility of making that decision.

This clarification of the purpose of the hearing and the statement he was not the one who had to make the decision of how to use the money were reiterated by the mayor numerous times during the hearing.

The crux of the arguments, for and against building a new community center, were quickly presented during the first few minutes of the hearing, but Mayor Echols reminded the gathering repeatedly that whether to build or not to build was not the question — how to utilize the $73,000 was the question at hand.

The first to be recognized by the mayor was Arnold Spiroff. He first asked if the money could be used to give raises to police officers. It was noted that the police have not received any raise in pay for five years.

The mayor quickly countered with another question. "If we gave the police a raise this year with the money, how could we then pay the raises next year and the year after that?"

Spiroff also questioned whether any study of the utilization of the Venice Park District recreation building had been made. The mayor replied there had not.

Many citizens voiced their feelings that the park district center is sufficient for use by the various organizations in the city and that a second community center is not needed.

William Griggs, former Venice alderman for 16 years, pointed out that the late Mayor William Ebersold, Echols' immediate predecessor, initiated the community center project. Mr. Ebersold and the Community Development office had earmarked the $109,000 for that purpose as early as 1978. Griggs asserted that whether or not to build a center was really a mute point.

Diana Sherrills, a member of one of two senior citizen groups in the city, asked the mayor why the city needs another center. The mayor again pointed out that wasn't the question before the people.

Robbie Silas, who stated she spoke for the younger sector of the city, especially the relatively new homeowners, said simply, "I can't afford it (a new community center)." She referred to the poor condition of the streets and the "sad" police department and said she couldn't understand how anyone could consider adding to the liability of the city.

She added that new homeowners, especially, "could not afford to pay higher taxes in the future to maintain a new building we don't need."

Echols rebutted the reference to possible higher taxes saying "Nobody's writing (President) Reagan when he's raising taxes."

Echols said that the late Venice Mayor John E. Lee, said she thought that a legitimate issue surrounding the community center project is from where the money will come to maintain the center and pay utilities, if a center is built.

She referred to numerous discussions by the city council in 1978 concentrating on that subject. She said that no decision was reached at that time about the needed maintenance funds.

The mayor pointed out that the Venice Park District is financially "strapped" and they still maintain their recreation center. The Venice Library also is "strapped" and still can maintain its building. He contended the city could maintain a new community center.

First Ward Alderman Phillip Daniels said that he feels the economic feasibility of a new center should be considered before deciding to use the available CD funds to build it.

Daniels said, "We (the council) sit here year after year, myself for three years, with no money to operate the city, and now are considering adding to the city's financial liability?"

A specific instance of program cutting was the recent decision by the council to discontinue the city's annual Christmas basket project. The program cost the city $5,000 a year.

The junior alderman favored using the money to improve what the city already has, especially for housing rehabilitation.

Mrs. Gertrude Young, who recently headed a successful fund drive to purchase Christmas decorations for the city, said simply, paraphrasing the late President John F. Kennedy, "Let's do what we can for the city, not ask what the city can do for us."

Larry Brown asked the question, "Where will the additional money needed to build a center come from? What do you (Mayor Echols) think $109,000 will build? He then said he believes that a new house now costs nearly $100,000 to build."

Silver Franklin continued this line of questioning directed at Echols, stressing that the money should be used to benefit all the citizens of the city, not just the senior citizens.

Brown, Franklin and a number of other younger citizens in attendance agreed that they were the ones who will have to pay the taxes in the future to maintain a new senior citizens center.

After those wishing to voice their opinions were finally heard, the mayor directed Police Chief Farris Smith to first circulate a piece of paper on which those supporting the combining of the available funds to build a senior citizens center could sign their names. Subsequently, another paper was circulated which those against using the $73,000 to help build a new center signed.

The majority's decision to use the money for the new center then was announced and greeted by scattered applause.

Christmas ball for older GC residents

The fifth annual Christmas Ball for Granite City Township residents 55-years-of-age or older will take place Thursday night, Dec. 16, at the township center, 2060 Delmar Ave., it was announced today by Township Supervisor Nelson Hagnauer.

Computer skills now being taught in grade schools

Granite City grade school youngsters have entered the computer world—and not just by playing video games. Instruction in use of computers continues to expand in District Nine.

The expansion was outlined to the Board of Education on Tuesday night. Learning center teachers reported they are making progress in developing a curriculum to be used on the district's Apple II microcomputers.

Their report related that "the enthusiasm we share regarding the educational impact this technology has had on our program is exciting."

"Responses expressed by parents at our recent open houses were a districtwide experience. Not a complaint, but we universally missed refreshments at the open houses due to the parents huddling around the computers. Pulling the plug was the only way out."

"This has all been made possible due to the encouragement and support by Supt. B. J. Davis, the board members, Instructional Services Administrator Warren Collins and staff members that included our principals and colleagues."

"The opportunity to organize and teach computer skills to all of our students is one of the most professionally rewarding experiences I have had."

"To see this positive reaction reflected by students and parents only adds to our commitment."

"Despite the difficult economic conditions, we are enjoying one of the most forward-moving programs of our times. We invite you to visit our learning centers to observe the students in action. They are eager to demonstrate their newly-learned proficiencies."

The learning center teachers are Mary Lou Schwab of Marshall School, Linda Irwin of Lake, Gail Vogeler of Webster, Alfred E. Fuller Jr. of Mitchell, Wilma Bone of Johnson, Joyce Tracy of Logan, Margaret Mulach of Nameoki, Judy Deterding of Prohard, Julia Matosich of Niedringhaus, Connie McGee of Emerson School, Catherine Cassy of Maryville, Virginia Oram of Wilson and Patty Moore of Parkview. Joining in the report was Elaine Parish, Emerson resource teacher.

Explains decision on hiring

The same individual who did clerical work for the Madison County sanitary sewer program here until November may well be the one hired when the position is opened to applicants after Dec. 15, Sewer Committee Chairman Morris Miles told the Press-Record on Tuesday.

Acknowledging that Miles' wife has been filling in on a temporary basis, the chairman said there never was any plan for her to take the job permanently.

A resolution adopted at the November meeting of the Madison County Board provided for the employment of a substitute for an employee being transferred to the county treasurer's office.

The resolution provided the substitute is to be paid at a yearly salary level at least $4,000 less than that of the previous employee.

Mrs. Miles' work began Nov. 29 and is to be concluded soon after the new sewer committee is appointed Dec. 15 and begins its work.

The county auditor and county clerk will continue to play a role in the functioning of the special sewer district, but the resolution ends a situation in which a clerk-typist reported to both the sewer district and the county treasurer, Miles said.

The "two-boss" approach proved unworkable, partly because of the attitude of Treasurer Mick Henkhaus, the 1981-82 sewer chairman commented. Whoever is hired will report only to the committee, Miles noted.

With the likelihood that correction of the situation would result in a brief interim period in which the office otherwise would not be manned, it was decided to choose someone who was willing to do the work only temporarily, he added.

PUBLIC HEARING SET

A hearing on the commissioner's annual report for the year ending Aug. 31 for the Chouteau, Nameoki and Venice Drainage and Levy District, Long Lake Levy and Drainage Sub-District, will be conducted Dec. 13 at 1:30 p.m. in Courtroom Number 3 of the Madison County Courthouse in Edwardsville. The public is being invited.

Area communities learn about Hospice

A free public information and educational program, concerning the Hospice concept and aimed at residents of Edwardsville, Collinsville, Troy and surrounding communities, started last night at St. Mary's School, Notre Dame and Madison Streets, Edwardsville.

The series of programs is being presented by Hospice of Madison County, located at St. Elizabeth Medical Center here, an institution which has provided and introduced many new and much needed services to this community.

Three additional sessions — Dec. 15, Jan. 5 and Jan. 12 — are planned at the same location. All are conducted from 7 p.m. until 9 p.m.

Nina Millett, Hospice director, and Lois Lybarger, director of volunteers, conducted the initial session which covered: society's views of aging and death; needs of dying persons and their families; Hospice philosophy and concepts; and Hospice history in Madison County.

Hospice refers to a way of caring for people nearing the end of life and faced with dying and in need of refuge.

The focus is on the patient and the family, rather than on the disease, and the aim is not to extend life through heroic life support systems, but to improve the quality of life that remains, Rosemarie Lindner, Hospice public relations director, explained.

Since 50 percent of the local medical center's patients live in the general areas of Collinsville, Edwardsville and Troy, Mrs. Lindner said it is important that residents in these communities become aware of the services available, thereby allowing them to become involved and part of the system of care that seeks to restore dignity and a sense of personal fulfillment to the dying. Emphasis also is stressed on the need for volunteer involvement in each community.

In the case of Hospice care, there is an immediate and tangible result — appropriate sensitivity and personal support instead of machines, Mrs. Lindner noted. Dignity and peace of mind, instead of loneliness and despair.

The remaining three sessions focus on such topics as team approach, issues of role blurring in Hospice care, spiritual and pastoral care, volunteer bereavement care, normal and abnormal grief, plus open discussions periods.

No charge is made to the public for any of the programs being offered.

More than 500 Hospice care programs now established in the United States are supported totally through local contributions, memorials and community grants and are staffed through many volunteer efforts from within the communities where they are located.

HAPPY NEW YEAR! HAPPY NEW YEAR!

New cuts seen harming schools

News of proposed new cuts in higher education and kindergarten-12th grade budgets has sent "shock waves" through education communities across Illinois and generated a barrage of speculation regarding possible harm to present education programs, according to Illinois Federation of Teachers Executive Secretary-Treasurer Ken Drum.

He said the legislature's two percent limitation on the governor's authorization to cut the budget would "most assuredly become the actual amount cut."

This would translate into $20 million from higher education and $42 million from K-12 budgets, he estimated Tuesday.

Drum termed the cuts disastrous, saying, "Once again public education is being asked to bear the burden for the fiscal irresponsibility of the Thompson administration."

"Granted, the state is having serious financial problems. But why must the governor always resort to Band-Aid tactics in order to balance his budgets?"

Drum also said Thompson has cut teacher pension funding two years in a row and has delayed $126 million in school payments.

In addition, he has been responsible for the decline of the state's contribution to public education from 48 to 40 percent, Drum charged, adding:

"He just will not face up to the real and obvious need for reform of the state's tax structure as a means of increasing state revenues."

"Cuts in federal aid to education, coupled with earlier educational cuts implemented by Thompson, already have school systems suffering."

"For some schools, further cuts may be the last straw which could lead to total collapse."

"The Thompson budget for education has the dubious distinction of being the first budget in Illinois history to allocate fewer actual dollars for education than allocated for the previous year."

"It is really ironic," said Drum, "that Thompson is always claiming that education is one of his top priority items. Apparently, he means that education has priority on his list."

On the multiplier issue, asserting that the loss of $600 million would have "sounded the death knell for public schools throughout Illinois," IFT President Robert M. Healey expressed relief that the efforts of IFT teachers and others were effective in defeating the governor's attempt to neutralize the assessment multiplier.

Healey had praise for IFT members across the state who made thousands of phone calls and sent letters and telegrams to legislators urging support for the multiplier.

He also applauded the efforts of many lobbyists from other labor unions who worked hard in hand with the teachers.

"He worked as a well-organized team and did everything possible to prevent Gov. Thompson and his supporters from killing the multiplier," Healey said.

He also weighed in with the Education Association's "failure to put forth any effort in the Illinois House to defeat the measure, and what appears to have been a token effort to defeat it in the Senate."

"Such longstanding friends of the IEA as Sen. Jack Schaefer and Rep. Larry Sullivan went along on the issue in the House."

"It makes you wonder whether or not the IEA was really in favor of the multiplier."

IFT spokesman Chuck Burden commented, "It is always difficult to understand the actions of a teacher organization that would endorse a governor's track record of continuously cutting public education."

BREAKFAST WITH SANTA. About 400 youngsters and parents enjoyed being able to eat breakfast with St. Nicholas during the weekend as the Granite City Junior Service Club hosted its annual breakfast with Santa in the Granite City Township Hall. The event included two hours of entertainment, visits with Santa and prizes for each child.

Purse snatcher flees from scene

Mrs. Greyford Rander, 2028 Washington Ave., was walking across a parking area in the 1800 block of Delmar Avenue when a man ran up behind her and grabbed her purse, knocking her to the ground, she told police at 2 p.m. Tuesday.

The purse snatcher then ran across Delmar Avenue and into the alley at the rear of First Granite City Savings and Loan, she said. Medical cards and keys were in the purse.

The thief was more than 6 feet tall, weighing 145 pounds and had short brown wavy hair. He was wearing a tan-brown jacket and blue jeans, the victim said.

BURGlar GETS TOOLS

A burglar took a long-handled shovel, 25 pounds of nails, a trowel, bolt cutters and a float from the Mark Five System contractor's tool storage bin at the Shasta Beverages plant, authorities were told last week. Entry was gained by breaking a lock.

Committee members at the session were Ted R. Funkhouser, Ed Gornwa, Sharon Perle, Phyllis Haynes and the Rev. Dennis

Mental health group stresses new areas

Programs through which the Mental Health Services of Southern Madison County, Inc., could better meet the needs of the community were explored by the agency's Quad-Cities Advisory Council at a recent meeting in the Community Counseling Services Center, 2024 State St.

Emphasis was placed on specific services, including Assertiveness Training and Stress Related workshops, being offered.

Also discussed at length was the current unemployment situation and how Mental Health Services and organizations, such as the Willing Workers of America, could work together to help individuals experiencing difficulty in coping with this vital area of concern.

The agency also has a speaker's bureau. Area groups interested in hearing a representative are asked to contact Mrs. Mayberry-Conder at 877-4420, to make arrangements.

BBB warns flood victims

Flood victims are being warned by the Better Business Bureau to beware of "unscrupulous individuals who follow in the wake of a disaster."

People claiming to be contractors, government representatives inspectors or insurance adjusters should be required to produce proper identification, the BBB said Tuesday.

"If you are in doubt, contact the government agency or the company the individual claims he is with. If there is a problem, alert the Better Business Bureau and your local police department," James C. Schmidt said.

"Take whatever action is necessary to protect your property from further damage as required by your insurance company."

"The Better Business Bureau urges flood victims to exercise caution before dealing with unknown contractors going door-to-door in damaged areas."

"Work done by such workmen usually is shoddy and expensive. When problems occur, the consumer has no way to locate the person who did the work in order to voice a complaint, much less have the problem remedied."

"Before doing business with a transient workman, ask his name, address, telephone number and contractor's license number."

"Check his truck, which should have a name painted on the side, and his license plate to determine if it is current and in what state it was issued.

Annual recreational, trailer license plates expiring

Midnight Friday, Dec. 31, is the deadline to display 1983 miscellaneous calendar-year license plates. Secretary of State Jim Edgar is reminding motorists.

Edgar said that annual recreational vehicle and trailer plates are available by mail or may be purchased over the counter at Secretary of State facilities in Springfield and Chicago.

Annual plates for commuter vans and fertilizer spreaders are available by mail or at the Centennial Building in Springfield.

Edgar said that motorists mailing applications should send them as soon as possible to beat the Christmas rush. It takes longer to deliver license plates than it does for expiration stickers.

Deadline for display of calendar-licensed vehicles under the provisions of the Illinois Vehicle Code, Sec. 3-402 and 3-402.1, has been extended to midnight, Feb. 28, 1983.

Edgar explained that the plates included with a deadline extension are 1982 Illinois apportionment plates under the International Registration Plan (IRP) for trucks, tractor-trailers, semi-trailers, trailers, and prorate base plates and decals.

Holidays bringing a bull market for Teddy bears

Stocks go up and stocks go down, but in Toyland, there's always a bull market.

Primarily responsible for this state of affairs is an almost-omnipotent bear cub named Teddy. In a fast-paced, fat-oriented and fickle-minded society, the forever young Teddy remains one of America's all-time favorite toys.

"Never in the history of Wall Street was the coyness at the mercy of the bears than it is today," cried the toy industry's trade magazine. Playthings, in 1906. "Stuffed plush Teddies are fairly rampant, and indications show prospects of a long and continued reign."

How right they were. Fleeting fame has come to other stuffed animals. Lions and tigers have been tried on occasion to push Teddy to center stage in the toy store window.

"One year, unicorns, true to type, tried to burn in on the day's act. Nonetheless, 'Our retailers tell us the Teddy Bear is still number one,'" Donna Leccese, Playthings' current associate editor, says.

Douglas Thomson, president of the Toy Manufacturers of America, agrees. "There's no decline in this species. The Teddy is on the increase."

First among equals perhaps — because each bear owner naturally thinks his or her Teddy is better — a seldom seen Teddy Bear who lives at the Smithsonian's National Museum of American History in Washington, D.C. He has a honey-colored coat covering a round belly, bright black eyes, and a wisdom-of-the-ages (if slightly smug) expression.

"One of the first Teddy Bears made in America," he was taken to the museum in 1964.

President Theodore Roosevelt's grandson, Kermit, his wife and their children had been presented with the Teddy Bear, one of the originals from the Ideal Toy Co., by Benjamin Michom, son of Ideal's founder.

Michom dated the bear to 1903, the year his parents went into the toy bear-making business. The Roosevelts decided that the Teddy Bear, named for the president, should go to the Smithsonian.

He almost didn't make it. A letter from Mrs. Roosevelt to Michom advised: "I was about to get in touch with the Smithsonian about presenting them with the original bear when the children decided they didn't want to part with it yet." Happily, Mark and Anne Roosevelt, the president's great-grandchildren, changed their minds. Several months later, the Smithsonian and the American people got their bear.

Theodore Roosevelt, however, didn't always get his. On Nov. 14, 1902, the president was on a hunting expedition in Sneddes, Miss., and had had no luck.

Anxious that the president bag a bear, some of his party chased down and stunned a 25-pound black bear. The hunters roped the bear and tied it to a tree. A messenger was dispatched to summon the president so that he might shoot the animal and go home with a trophy.

When the president arrived, he refused to shoot the exhausted and tethered creature. A Washington Post article the next day informed its readers in turn of the century style: President Called After the Beast Had Been Lassoed, but He Refused to Make an Unsportsmanlike Shot.

The shot not fired was heard around the land. Three Press Association representatives waiting with the hunting party and a small army of reporters was following the president's trail. On Nov. 16, 1902, a cartoon by Clifford Berryman illustrating the incident appeared on the front page of the Washington Post.

The American public immediately responded to the story and the cartoon, presumably finding in the heroic and sportsmanlike qualities it saw in its president.

Shortly, the whole matter took on a more whimsical tone. A subsequent Berryman cartoon of the same hunting episode, dated 1902, depicted the bear as smaller than the one in the first cartoon — a worried-looking and very appealing cub.

Berryman's little bear was a great success and appeared in his cartoons of Theodore Roosevelt for years afterward. In fact, Teddy's name was everywhere.

Observed historian Mark Sullivan: "The 'Teddy Bear,' beginning with the Berryman cartoon, was repeated thousands of times in the printed word, and thousands of millions of times. Toy-makers took advantage of its vogue; it became a household name in the hands of children than than the woolly lamb."

Legend and family oral history have it that Brooklyn candy store owners Rose and Morris Michom gave America its first stuffed bear toy and named it for Roosevelt.

According to their son, Benjamin, who died in 1980, Morris Michom was inspired by the cartoon and wrote to the president, asking his permission to make a small bear cub and call it "Teddy's Bear."

As Benjamin Michom heard the story from his father, the president agreed, although TB was said to have expressed doubt that his name would mean much in the toy bear business.

Despite that skepticism, Rose Michom made a few samples of the new Teddy Bear. In 1903, Butler Brothers, a large wholesaler, agreed to distribute it, and the Ideal Novelty and Toy Co. was born.

"I've been hearing that story since I was a tiny child," Mark Michom says. "Why all the fuss over a stuffed furry creature? New York City's Big Apple Bear Den put it this way: 'We have an enduring affection for the Teddy Bear, finding it to be a universal symbol of love, comfort and joy.'"

Psychiatrist Dr. Paul Horton of Meriden, Conn., agrees, appraising the therapeutic value of the Teddy Bear as a "solacing object." Horton is the author of Solace: The Missing Dimension in Psychiatry (University of Chicago Press, 1981).

The solacing object might be a Teddy Bear or any other stuffed animal, a security blanket, a sailboat or a live pet, so long as it gives comfort in times of stress or change.

Horton often "prescribes" Teddy Bears for both children and adults as a supplement to an overall treatment program.

One 12-year-old boy suffering from nightmares received a teddy bear from Horton with instructions "to talk with it every night and to put it under his pillow to protect him when he went to sleep." The nightmares stopped.

So teddy has a serious side. He is a willing listener who can share good times and bad. He's also huggable, clean around the house and cheap to feed. No wonder America is going crazy over him once again.

At least one person, however, was immune to his charm — Theodore Roosevelt's daughter Alice Roosevelt Longworth.

When offered one of the original Teddy Bears in exchange for posing with the teddy on the occasion of the bear's 80th birthday, she refused, asking tartly, "What does a 79-year-old doll want with a 90-year-old Teddy Bear?"

Zoological Society of Philadelphia, America's first chartered zoo, held "America's First Great Teddy Bear Rally." For two days, 25,000 people and an undetermined number of bears marched in parades, entered contests, attended bear-care clinics and swapped bear tales.

Archephiologists, as collectors of bear-like models are known, abound.

Matthew Murphy, board chairman of the Republic Bank of Plano, Texas, started at the age of five, back in 1935, with three dozen 4-inch Teddies. First they were soldiers and later they became football players with numbers and records.

"Today they are retired bank executives," Murphy says. He owns 1,257 bears, but "only" 238 of them are Teddies.

The Good Bears of the World, with 7,000 members, is a non-profit organization dedicated to donating bears to children and older people in hospitals, institutions or wherever they are needed.

Through their dens in many states, the Good Bears have given away 75,000 Teddies and other bears since the group was founded in 1973.

So far, 11 states have proclaimed Theodore Roosevelt's birthday, Oct. 17, as Good Bear Day. The group is urging the United Nations to declare 1985 "The Year of the Teddy Bear."

Workshops to aid teachers in using economics films

Workshops to help teachers use a new video series on economics, "Give and Take," will be offered on request by the Center for Economic Education at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville. "Give and Take" is a 12-part series of 15-minute programs designed to help students in grades eight through 10 increase their understanding of economic concepts, according to Ray Bernardi, center director. "Students can learn to make better decisions as consumers, producers and citizens, using the problem-solving situations dramatized in the series," he said. Subjects range from security and personal decision-making, to saving, cost or substitution. The series was developed by the joint Council on Economic Education in association with the Canadian Foundation for Economic Education. A similar series, "Trade-Offs," has been credited with increasing fourth to seventh grade students' scores on standardized economics and achievement tests, according to John Lewis, executive director of the Illinois Council on Economic Education. In addition to the workshops, the SIUE center also will make the series available in 16mm films on a free loan basis to area school systems. Copies of the series in video format will be sold for $350. For additional information, interested persons may contact Ray Bernardi or the Center for Economic Education at 1-602-2733.

Tax proposals by Thompson

Governor James R. Thompson wants tax changes — to "maintain the state's financial health in the face of declining revenue trends."

In a letter to Senate President Philip Rock last week, Thompson asked legislators to bring the state budget back into balance by addressing a $200 million revenue shortfall for fiscal year 1983 (July '82 to June '83).

A decline in the economic outlook, the governor said, has affected the 1983 budgets of many states, including California, Arizona, Indiana, Wisconsin and New York. Many have already undertaken deep spending cuts and have increased state taxes.

Thompson proposed immediate enactment of legislation allowing: An acceleration of public utility tax revenues to payment cycle identical with the Illinois sales taxes. This would yield a one-time cash gain of $34 million.

An increase in the state's liquor tax rates to bring them up to national averages. This would produce about $12 million in fiscal 1983.

Authority for the governor to establish a reserve is an important power that currently exists in 19 states. In these times of unpredictable revenues caused by an erratic national economy, it is important that I have the power to react quickly and responsibly to economic downturns," he commented.

"I am prepared to make reductions in state spending and to take action to accelerate tax revenues to the general funds."

"If these measures are not enacted, it will be my duty to call the General Assembly back into special session this month and present extensive proposals for specific spending reductions."

Thompson said failure to act at this time could jeopardize services provided by the state, its fiscal solvency, and efforts to revitalize its economy and attract new jobs.

"The administration has long been concerned with the state's cash position and has taken steps all year to make corrections to meet the condition of reduced revenues caused by the continuing, four-year-old recession."

This recession and the October 1982 shortfall have taken the state's fiscal problems beyond a situation that can be addressed by cash flow solutions alone," he said.

"The solution must include spending cuts or new taxes."

Illinois' liquor tax is imposed on the privilege of engaging in business as a manufacturer or importer of liquor.

Liquor is taxed by both the federal and state governments on the basis of its volume and/or price. The Illinois tax is based on volume, with current rates as follows:

Beer, seven cents per gallon.

Wine (less than 14 percent), 25-cents per gallon.

Wine (greater than 14 percent), 60-cents per gallon.

Spirits, $2 per gallon.

The state's current tax rates on all classes of alcoholic beverages have been in effect since 1969 and are well below the national average as computed by the Illinois Legislative Council in its March 3, 1982, report, Thompson noted.

He proposes to increase the current tax rates in Illinois to the average rates on liquor in the 34 states that allow the retail sale of alcohol.

The new rates would be: Beer, 16.5-cents. Wine (less than 14 percent), 47-cents. Wine (greater than 14 percent), 92-cents. Spirits, $2.70.

The effective date of the proposed legislation is Feb. 1, 1983.

The state collected $75 million in liquor taxes fiscal 1982, a slight decline from the previous several years.

The new rates would yield an additional $12 million in liquor taxes during the remainder of 1982 and $50 million in fiscal 1983, estimates show.

Utility taxes (message, electric and natural gas) are imposed at a rate of five percent of gross receipts from distributing, furnishing or selling electricity or natural gas or transmitting messages in Illinois.

Taxpayers with a monthly liability of $100 or more must file returns and remittances by the 15th of each month covering receipts from the previous month.

Under this system, taxes collected by utility companies can be held for a minimum of 15 days prior to turning them over to the state.

Taxes may be held as long as 45 days by utility companies which currently have the equivalent of one month's deposit on file.

The proposed legislation would change current law to require taxpayers (utility companies) to file and remit taxes in equal installments four times per month, based on the taxpayer's estimate of that month's liability, to be reconciled by the 15th of the following month.

The effect would be to handle utility tax collections in much the same way as sales tax collections are currently handled, the governor asserted, adding:

"The taxpayer would be allowed a 10 percent threshold for error in the amount of the estimate he remits, without penalty."

If he exceeds that threshold, he would be liable for penalty and interest on the difference between the minimum amount due and the payment made."

The effective date would be Feb. 1.

In July 1981-June 1982, utility taxes collected exceeded $595,000,000.

The plan would accelerate the receipt of about $34,000,000, resulting in a one-time gain for state general revenue funds.

Thompson added, "The performance of state revenues throughout 1982 has been weak, culminating in a sharp unexpected decline in October."

The October shortfall occurs even after adjusting the respective revenue yields for any changes in processing.

The significance of the October experience is at least twofold.

First, because cash balances have been eroded by four successive years of recession, financial margins have become uncomfortably thin.

"Now, comparatively small differences between estimates of revenues and actual 1982 yields can significantly reduce remaining cash balances. It is estimated that the October shortfall in the income and sales taxes was about $40 million."

Secondly, the October forecast for the U.S. economy declined, for the second month in a row. An upward trend to the forecasts, in evidence during the summer months, was short-lived.

Economic forecasts for the United States furnished by Chase Econometrics and Data Resources have been erratic for fiscal 1983.

Both were comparatively optimistic last winter. Thereafter, the forecast declined until late spring, when the upward trend was reversed and the outlook brightened.

In late September, the other reversal occurred and the outlook worsened once again. Based on this one month, a downward trend in the outlook could not be established.

"The October forecast, available in the closing days of the month, again declined."

"Because of these changes in the economic outlook, revisions to state estimates of revenue were necessary."

In February 1982, the Bureau of the Budget test before the Illinois Economic and Fiscal Commission that the legislature's estimate of revenues and the Bureau's estimate were in close agreement.

At the end of March, the commission lowered its estimate of state sources because of the decline in the outlook.

Shortly afterward, Budget Director Robert Mandeville testified before legislative committees that there was downward pressure on state sources of about $70 million, which indicated that legislative and Bureau of the Budget estimates were still in close agreement.

In July veto messages, I said that forecasting services were less optimistic, especially in their forecasts of U.S. corporate profits.

"The full extent of the revision to the economic forecasts was not anticipated by me or State Comptroller Roland Burris. In his financial report May 27, he said that most economists saw an economic recovery getting under way in the last of 1982.

Finally, on legislative estimates state revenues were reduced by $179 million.

"The Bureau of the Budget agrees that — based on financial trends and the economic outlook through October, together with a preliminary view of November's experience and outlook estimates of state revenues — sources should be reduced by $200 million."

"A detailed set of revenue estimates will be available when November is fully reviewed. It is possible that this analysis will show that additional downside pressure to state revenue still exists."

To hear water slide proposal for Venice

Residents of the Venice Park District are being encouraged to attend a meeting of the Venice Park Board of Commissioners at 7:30 p.m. today when proposed installation of a water slide in the community will be previewed. The meeting is scheduled at the Venice Recreation Center, 323 Broadway.

The Rev. John Henry Williams, park board president, said Art Fiascone, a representative of Technic Industries of Valdeese, N.C., will review specifications required for constructing a water slide, a summertime activity which is increasing in popularity throughout the Midwestern states.

At previous meetings, Venice commissioners have discussed the feasibility of constructing a swimming pool in the community. Rev. Williams said the expense involved in such a project, plus today's economic conditions, a water slide would be less expensive to construct and maintain.

"I believe the people of Venice deserve some type of swimming facility in our park. Our residents should not have to go elsewhere to spend their money for swimming activities, we should be keeping that money here," the park officer asserted.

If the proposal is approved by the park board, Board Attorney Lawrence Hartman will be asked to proceed with the legal work necessary to submit the proposition to voters on the April 17 park district ballot. Rev. Williams said.

Preliminary information about the water slide proposal was acquired when its potential was explored by Rev. Williams and Fiascone at the annual convention of Illinois park board officials in Chicago.

Fiascone serves as Illinois sales consultant for Technic Industries, Inc.

Hagnauer, Miles lead county board

Quad-Cityans captured both leadership positions Monday as the Madison County Board reorganized.

After Nelson Hagnauer of Granite City was re-elected unanimously as the board chairman (he has held the post since 1971), the members in a 16-11 written vote chose Morris W. Miles of Mitchell as vice-chairman. Miles defeated the outgoing vice-chairman, Fred Dalton of Collinsville.

Miles told the Press-Record after his election as the board's second-ranking officer, "I'm pleased to receive this opportunity for additional service."

"Whatever constructive work I can do to help the board and chairman, I'll be glad to do."

Miles received another boost Monday when he drew a four-year term, instead of the two-year term selected for his district in late August.

The pre-election term-length decisions had been made in the belief that Gov. James R. Thompson would sign such legislation into law. He did not, however, and this required that the drawing of terms take place when the new board began its deliberations Monday.

New committees will not be formed until Dec. 15.

Nearly all of the board terms are the same as previously designated. Exceptions include Miles of District 16, Donald C. Rea of Pontoon Beach (and of County Dist. 25), William R. Haine of Alton (Dist. 8) and Michael Semanisin of Maryville (27), all garnering four-year terms instead of the two years indicated earlier.

Cut from four years to two years Monday were the county board members from four districts, 5, 9, 18 and 28. In that order, they are Robert L. Copley of Godfrey, Richard Hugh Worthen of Alton, James Hanks of Edwardsville and (for a double setback in one day), Collinsville's Dalton.

The other 21 members of the 29-member board drew the same length terms as had been determined during the summer.

Beginning four-year terms besides Haine, Miles, Rea and Semanisin in 8-16-25-27 are:

Alan Dunstan of Troy (Dist. 2), H. Jack Frandson of Alhambra (3), Homer Henke of Moro (4), William Aery of Godfrey (6), Charles H. Burns of Edwardsville

(11), Rudolph Papa of Bethalto (14), William Webb of Granite City (19), Chairman Hagnauer of Granite City (20), Vasil Efthimoff of Granite City (21), Nick Hamilos of Glen Carbon (26) and Frank Vivot of Collinsville (29).

Those starting two-year terms along with Copley, Worthen, Hanks and Dalton in 5-9-18-28 are:

Harold Byers of Highland (1), William Little of Alton (7), Harold "Cotton" Roberts of Alton (10), Anthony Bosich of Wood River (12), Leroy Kuehn of East Alton (13), George Schmittling of Roxana (15), Donald McLean of Edwardsville (17), Herbert "Junior" Milton of Granite City (22), Roderick Bauder of Venice (23) and Frank Dutko of Madison (24).

All of the board members serving during the December 1982-November 1984 period are Democrats except for three Republicans—Henke of Dist. 4, Aery of 6 and Hanks of 18.

New to the board are Rea, Byers, Kuehn, Copley, Aery, Burns, Papa, Hanks and Hamilos. Efthimoff had been serving by appointment during 1982 and was elected Nov. 2.

Worthen was a member of the Madison County Board in 1976-80 and has now returned after a two-year absence.

All of the seats were subject to election this fall due to the once-a-decade, census-related redistricting.

McLean, Dalton, Little and Dunstan were asked to continue as Finance Committee members due to ongoing duties of that committee in the first half of December.

Three holdovers on the Building Committee also will continue their work pending the formal designation of committees next week.

Re-election of Hagnauer took place after a nominating motion by Little and a second by Henke.

The chairman briefly noted the piling of $2 million to balance the 1982-83 fiscal year budget. He pledged to be open and fair, and called for cooperation from the board.

OLD COINS STOLEN

A burglar who pried plywood from a door ransacked the Russell Robinson residence, 2906 Buxton Ave., last week. Old coins, including coins from the U.S., Mexico and Philippines, were stolen by the intruder.

FILLING SANDBAGS. Volunteers from the Wood River Township Emergency Corps and the Granite City Auxiliary Police help fill sandbags during the weekend at the eastern end of the old Chain of Rocks Canal Bridge to be trucked onto Chouteau and Gabaret islands and help protect the island levees. The volunteers were among more than 100 who helped protect the islands during the weekend.

$350 PUMP STOLEN

A two-inch pump worth $350 was stolen this week from a J. H. Berra Construction Co. truck parked in the 1900 block of Spruce St.

Arrest after home burglary

Lance E. Hutchinson, 18, of 2731 Warren Ave. was charged by Granite City police this week with burglary in connection with a break-in occurring between Dec. 1 and Dec. 4 at the Perkins home, 2717 Marshall Ave.

Vincent S. Hutchinson, 18, of 2731 Warren was taken into custody at the same time during the weekend and at the same place, a Kirkpatrick Homes apartment; he was booked on a burglary at a residence at 2908 Sunset Drive.

In court hearings at 3 p.m. Monday, Lance, Hutchinson's bond was set at $25,000 and Vincent Hutchinson's bond was set at $20,000. They were held pending transfer to the Madison County jail.

Also arrested at the same apartment, Steven R. Howland, 17, of 7934 Old Alton Road was booked on warrants alleging curfew violation and disorderly conduct. He was released to his parents a short time later.

North sails past Vikings on way to sixth win

By ROGER KRAMER

CREVE COEUR — Even though Granite City North demolished Parkway North 49-14 in a dual wrestling meet here Tuesday, the meet was far from a total success for the Steelers.

North had such an easy time disposing of the Vikings that North clinched the meet at the 138 weight class. However, North coach Walt Whitaker thought the early success affected the performance of his wrestlers at the heavier weights.

The Steelers lost two of the five remaining matches (145 and 167) and tied another (185).

"You've got to wrestle everyone hard no matter how weak the other wrestlers on the team may be," Whitaker said. "You have to look at each wrestler and take him accordingly. You never take anyone lightly."

"Sometimes, it takes a loss or two for the boys to realize they have to wrestle hard to win every meet. I was worried about wrestling Edwardsville because I didn't know if the boys were taking Edwardsville seriously or not," Whitaker said.

Despite the problems at the heavier weights, Whitaker was pleased with end result of the meet. North won its sixth straight meet of the year and picked up five pins.

The pins started coming early for North. Colin Davis, who moved up to 105 from 98, pinned Hsiang Liaw in 1:50. Greg Nemeth pinned Barry White in 1:39 at 112, and Brent McKenney pinned Mark Rouy in 1:10 at 119 for the Steelers.

"You've got to wrestle everyone hard no matter how weak the other wrestlers on the team may be... You have to look at each wrestler and take them accordingly."

Sophomore Mark Whitaker pinned Ron Mudd in 1:59, and Bruce Widel pinned Chuck Laughter in 3:08 at 155 for North.

Rod Unger at 132 picked up the only decision win for the Steelers. He crushed Fred Montgomery in a 19-5 major decision. Gary Mann (98) and John Kramer (HWT) won by forfeits.

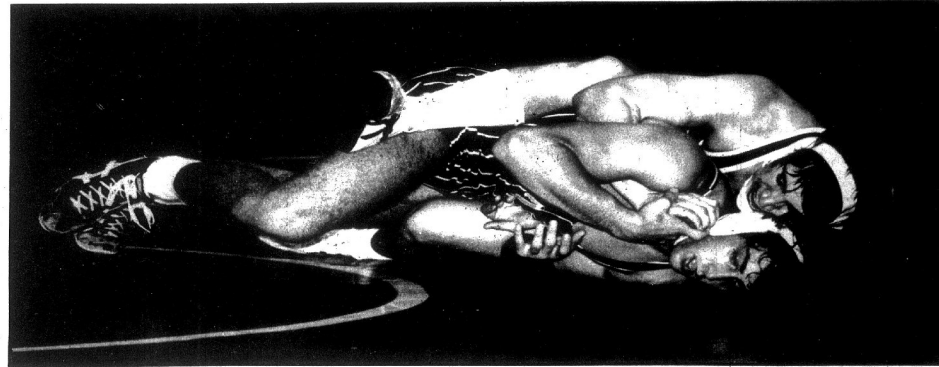

The Vikings' John Stancic had his team's only pin when he beat the Steelers' Rich Rash in 5:40 in the 126 bout. However, the matches at 145, 155 and 185 were the ones which really concerned Whitaker.

Vince Stancic beat North's Dan Whitsett 7-0 at 145. Bill Zimmer lost a 4-2 decision to Dan Nieman at 167 to further perplex Whitaker.

John Morris needed some last moment maneuvering after losing his lead in the 185 match and tied Terry Flynn 8-8.

"In all, you can't be too unhappy about the meet. Some of our wrestlers didn't wrestle up to what they're capable of doing. I would have been very unhappy if all of us wrestled that way tonight," Whitaker said.

"I was very pleased with Mark's pin at 138, and I was pleased with all of the wrestlers at the lower weight because they really did the job. I was happy

PRESSURE. Granite City North's Bill Zimmer, 167, tries to force Dan Nieman down on his back, but Zimmer didn't quite get about McKenney's pin," Whitaker said. North isn't active again until Wednesday when they wrestle Hazelwood East at the North gym at 6:30 p.m.

"Things are looking good for us so far. We don't want to overdo it during practice, because we'll need all of our wrestlers next week," Whitaker said.

Memories clouded for the '41 cagers

By AL BARNES

For the Press-Record

Thousands of words are written about a team which wins a state or national championship.

For example, the brilliant 1939-40 Granite City High Warriors' basketball team led by the nonpareil Andy Phillip, captured the love of not only the fans of the Quad-City, but was the sentimental, under-dog favorites of most Illinois prep cage fans who, themselves, didn't have a school still in the running for the state crown.

I remember well the crowded lobby of the old Huff Gym on the campus at the University of Illinois during the March Madness of 1940. It was very obvious that almost 100 percent of the unattached fans were pulling for the tournament's Cinderella Club, the Warriors of Granite City.

In fact, it was a miracle that the Warriors were even there; they made it by reason of an unusual ruling then in effect which permitted a school to lose, but still remain in the running.

As I've made the point, a great deal has been written about that state championship team.

This story is about one of the two teams which immediately followed the state champions on the hardwood court for Granite City. After much searching, I couldn't locate the one immediately following, but did come up with the 1941-42 aggregation, coached by Len Davis.

The number one star on the team was center Dick Harmon, now tennis and cross country coach at South Harmon, matriculated at Southern Illinois University at Carbondale before their teams were called the Salukis. He paced the SIU-C cagers to their first national basketball championship. He was a key player on the Carbondale quintet which won the small college basketball tournament at Kansas City in 1948.

In researching the team, it was amazing how the individual members I talked to had trouble remembering how their old teammates spelled their names and now, just 40 years and World War II, Korea and Vietnam later, didn't know where their ex-teammates were and what they had done with their lives.

Assessor; Linden Harold, a Navy Pilot, but whose whereabouts I was unable to pinpoint; Ray Wiessenborn, a retired accountant for a Federal Government agency who was located most of his career in Washington, D.C., equipment manager, Jake Parnely. His career and whereabouts unknown; Mike Starko was an employee of the Granite City Army Depot and is now retired; Richard Depegian is a commercial artist now in St. Louis; John Garabedian was a rear gunner in a Navy plane on an airplane carrier and was reputed lost at sea during the Battle of the Philippines; and George Nenning, now retired from the Granite City Fire Department. Incidentally, there seemed to be some doubt as to the spelling of one fellow's name... Starko... and the first name of another, Nenning. One of the players said that it was Mike Stercho and another said the fireman's first name was Harold. If you can clear it up, let me know.

Incidentally, my thanks to two men, Vasil Erdimoff and Andy Hagopian, for their valuable help in pinning down indents for many of the guys on the squad.

A close scrutiny of the team photo reveals something that is truly revealing of things past and present: Each and every player has on knee pads and their shoes are high topers. How long has it been since you've seen knee pad cagers equipped with knee pads unless, of course, he's had bad luck with his knees.

In conclusion, since coach Len Davis entered the U.S. Navy immediately after the 41-42 season, who was it who took over as basketball coach at Granite City High?

are: Zakar Mouradin, Von Dee Cruse, Linden Harold, Ray Wiessenborn, Jake Parnely, Mike Starko, Richard Depegian, John Garabedian and George Nenning.

South, Madison in Centralia basketball tourney

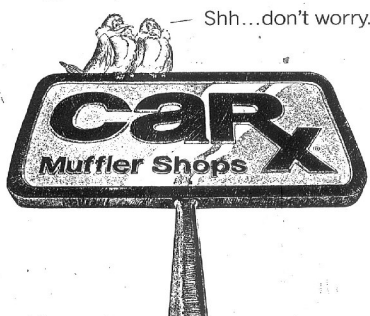

Granite City South and Madison High Schools are among 16 teams which will compete in the 40th annual Centralia Holiday Tournament, Dec. 27-29, at Centralia High's Trout Gym.

Among the teams in the tourney are two Kentucky teams, Union County of Morgansfield and Louisville Southern. Other area teams include Belleville West, Edwardsville, and East St. Louis Senior. Union County, which last appeared in the quarter-finals of the Kentucky state tournament in 1980, will feature 6-2 senior guard Mike Wilson, who dropped in 22 points in his team's first game of 1982. Louisville Southern boasts 6-5 forward Tony Carter, who like Wilson is rated as one of Kentucky's top players. Illinois teams appearing will challenge with such highly touted players as Belleville West's 6-7 forward Ken Coplen, who averaged 10.5 points per game on West's 24-5 squad last year, and Arlington's Chris Berg, who is already committed to play for Northwestern. East St. Louis has two of the state's top guards in Teddy Spraggins and Fred Taylor and will return 6-9 junior Eric Young at center. Benton High School's, the southern most team from Illinois in the tourney, will feature 6-7 junior center Bruce Baker who averaged 15 points per game and 9 rebounds as a sophomore, and 6-5 senior forward Mark Peters, who transferred from Jonesboro.

Phone rate hike sought

Illinois Bell on Monday asked the Illinois Commerce Commission for a 5.6 percent increase in total company revenues.

"We wish we did not have to make this request, but we have no reasonable alternative," said William H. Springer, Illinois Bell senior executive vice president.

"We must make sure we have the financial resources to provide the reliable telephone service our customers expect."

"During the past year, we used every available internal means to improve our financial health. We trimmed back or deferred millions of dollars of investment needed to maintain telephone service."

"We reduced our work force by 3,300 employees. We enforced stringent cost controls."

"Our productivity improvements during the past five years are nearly five times the national average. Still, we are earning well below the level authorized by the commission."

"Last May, after 11 months of consideration, the commission granted us about half the rate increase we requested. We said then that it was inadequate if we were to continue to provide high-quality telecommunications service in Illinois."

The company is asking to increase revenues by $184 million, a 5.6 percent rise in total revenues.

More than 70 percent of the requested increase would come from local service rates that have increased twice since 1974.

"Historically, basic local service rates have been priced at less than cost," Springer said. "This has been possible because local rates have been supported by revenues from long distance services and premium telephone equipment, like Triline phones."

"Today, other companies are offering these products and services in competition with us. This forces us to relate our prices more closely to actual cost."

Other requests include a 25-cent coin charge, revisions in the directory assistance charging plan, service connection charges based on time and material costs, and increases in some operator-handled calls.

"The company is not asking for any increases in charges for telephone equipment, Touch-Tone service, or long distance direct dialed calls."

"Telephone service will continue to be one of the few bargains available," Springer said.

"In the last five years, other goods and services as measured by the Consumer Price Index have increased three times as much as the price of telephone service."

"Even with the increase requested this week, rates for telephone service will have risen only half as much as other goods and services."

Springer summarized factors responsible for the new request as:

"A need for higher earnings to attract investor dollars to help finance the half-billion dollar annual construction budget used to maintain and improve telephone service."

"The impact of inflation. Although moderating compared to prior years, it continues to affect the cost of doing business, including higher costs for replacement and adding of new facilities."

"Competition in the telecommunications industry, eliminating support that has kept basic local service rates priced at less than cost."

"Rapid technological advances and changing customer demand, requiring the company to replace equipment more rapidly than in the past, increasing annual depreciation expenses."

A typical Chicago area residence customer would see and increase in monthly charges varying from $1.65 to $3.30.

State area residence customers with flat-rate service (unlimited calling within the local area) would pay a $2.70 increase.

Suburban and state residence measured Zero customers would see a $1.70 increase. Each unit of local calling would continue to be priced at $2.25 per unit.

For suburban and state business customers with measured service, the company has asked for a $3.85 increase for each line.

Suburban and state business customers with flat-rate service (unlimited calling within the local area) would see a $5.60 increase for each line. Rates for Chicago business measured service would not be increased.

Illinois Bell asked that its rate of return on capital be increased to a range of 13.1 to 13.8 percent from the current authorized level of 12.32 percent. Earnings for the rate are less than nine percent.

"We are earning well below our authorized level of return on capital," Illinois Bell said. "The Illinois Commerce Commission approval of higher rates so we can attract the investor dollars we need to provide the quality service our customers expect," Springer concluded.

CENSUS SURVEY ON EMPLOYMENT HERE

Local representatives of the Bureau of the Census will conduct a survey of employment in this area next week.

Marvin L. Postma, director of the bureau's regional office in Kansas City, has announced.

The survey is conducted for the U.S. Department of Labor in a scientifically designed sample of approximately 71,000 households throughout the United States. Employment and unemployment statistics based on results of this survey are used to provide a continuing measure of the economic health of the nation.

For example, in October, 1982, the survey indicated that of the 110.6 million men and women in the civilian labor force, 99.1 million were employed.

The nation's unemployment rate was 10.4 percent, 0.3 percent higher than reported in September.

Information supplied by individuals participating in the survey is kept strictly confidential by law and the results are used only to compile statistical totals, Postma said.

License plates for cycles, company vehicles expiring

Company-owned and leased passenger cars, and all motorcycles and mopeds have until mid-night Friday, Dec. 31, to display orange 1983 expiration stickers.

The Secretary of State Jim Edgar said that 1983 passenger stickers should be displayed in the upper left corner of the rear license plate. Motorcycle and moped stickers always are attached to the upper right corner.

Approximately 282,000 renewal applications have been mailed for company-owned and leased cars, with an additional 290,600 for motorcycles and mopeds.

Applications made by mail should be in the Secretary's office no later than Wednesday, Dec. 15.

Company-owned vehicle and motorcycle and moped stickers may be purchased over the counter at Secretary of State facilities in Springfield and Chicago, and at 1,296 financial institutions, including 577 banks, 118 savings and loans, 600 Chicago area currency exchanges and one credit union.

Leased stickers are available only at the Springfield office, three major Chicago facilities and the walk-in facility (for 10 applications or less) at 157 N. Wells in Chicago.

Effective Saturday, Jan. 1, 1983, anyone driving one of the above vehicles with an expired brown, December, 1982, sticker will be subject to a fine for improper registration.

If you need a renewal application or have any questions about the Secretary of State's office, use the Secretary's toll-free telephone number 1-800-252-8980, Edgar said.

SIUE class deals with death and dying

The department of philosophical studies at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville will offer, during the winter quarter, a course on death, dying and bereavement as they relate to childhood and adolescence.

In addition, the course will consider special problems involving children who are dying, the needs of parents, siblings and those who are caring for dying children; bereaved children; adults who are mourning the death of a child; neonatal and sudden infant death; suicide among young people; and guidelines for counseling.

Instructor for the course is Charles Corr, author of several books, numerous articles and papers on the topic of death and dying. Additional information on the course may be obtained by contacting the SIUE department of philosophical studies at (618) 692-2250.

FALLS ON SIDEWALK
Mrs. Margaret DeRuntz, 2009 Lindell Blvd., fell on the sidewalk last week in the 1900 block of Edison Avenue and was treated for a swollen right hand, bruises about the face and multiple cuts and abrasions.

Realtors say home buying on upswing

In a significant response to declining mortgage interest rates, existing single-family home sales in October rose 4.3 percent from September, reaching the highest level since early summer, said Dr. Jack Carlson, chief economist and executive vice president of the National Association of Realtors.

Existing single-family home sales totaled 1.92 million units on a seasonally-adjusted annual rate basis, compared with the revised September rate of 1.84 million units. "Most of the improvement took place in the second half of October as consumers stopped their wait-and-see attitude and switched to a buying mode in response to mortgage rates in the 13 to 14 percent range," Carlson said.

An October telephone survey by the National Association of Realtors of real estate brokers in major metropolitan areas across the nation gave strong indications of increased activity in the housing market. Carlson noted, "This was true both in regard to increased numbers of people looking for homes to buy and in actual sales, he said."

"The unforunately high mortgage interest rates that had prevailed until recently had sent housing into its worst decline since the Great Depression," he said.

"But the data from October, based on figures after those rates had started to fall, provide enough encouraging evidence that the upturn has begun and that the worst is behind us."

4 injured in 3-car crash on Nameoki

John Lowe, 42, of 2408 Sunset Drive was charged with reckless driving and driving while under the influence of alcohol late last week after his southbound auto had hit two other cars on Nameoki Road at Madison Avenue. He and three other persons were hurt.

The front of his vehicle hit the left rear of the car of Freda Kraus, 2617½ Madison Ave., and then continued on to strike the left front of the auto of Harold Cruse, 59, of 2329 Edwards St. Both of the latter vehicles were northbound on Madison and turning left onto Nameoki.

Shortly before the Lowe car allegedly passed a red light, witnesses said, it drove over curbing and crossed both southbound lanes of Nameoki Road.

The three motorists and a passenger, Jennifer Cruse, 12, of 2329 Edwards suffered injuries and some were taken in ambulances to St. Elizabeth Medical Center. Lowe was freed by police later upon posting $102 cash bail and his driving license.

Venice dance to aid Santa's visit

A benefit dance to support the second annual "Breakfast With Santa" program for Venice youngsters will take place at 7 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 11, at the Venice Recreation Center, 323 Broadway, it was announced today.

The breakfast project, featuring Santa Claus as the honored guest, is open to all Venice children without charge and will take place

Christmas Eve, Dec. 24, at 9 a.m., under sponsorship of the People's Organization to Benefit the Children of Venice.

Photos of Santa and participating youngsters will be taken and treats will be distributed.

The Rev. John Henry Williams, chairman of the host group, said further details about Saturday night's fund raising dance may be obtained by contacting Earl Hogan, co-chairman, at 451-9914.

Members of the Venice children's aid group also are planning to serve as "bell-ringers" for the Salvation Army Tree of Lights campaign, which helps needy families throughout the Quad-City area at Christmastime, Rev. Williams said.

The group will ring bells and solicit donations Saturday, Dec. 11, and again on Saturday, Dec. 18, at the Venice Liquor Store and the Venice Red Fox Grocery Store.

The Venice children's organization provided volunteers for last year's community-wide drive for funds.

"SWINGSTERS TWO," a music duet of Art Bertacchi, left, and Bob Lambert, entertain stroke rehabilitation patients at St. Elizabeth Medical Center. The two, who have been entertaining locally for more than 40 years, present classic songs from the 1940s, '50s and '60s.

Schnuck aid for tornado, flood victims

Schnuck Markets, Inc., announced Tuesday the formation of a $50,000 relief fund for victims of recent floods and tornadoes.

The company will donate $50,000 worth of food and other services which will be distributed by the Salvation Army and Red Cross to flood and tornado victims.

In addition, Schnuck will provide a facility near Highway 141 and Manchester Road, at 140 Old Meramec Station Road, to serve as a Salvation Army victim relief center.

In order for the community to also participate in this effort, each of the Schnuck stores is being set up immediately as a collection point for canned and packaged foods, blankets, linens, and cleaning supplies.

These will be collected by Schnuck's and distributed by the Salvation Army.

The Salvation Army has plenty of clothing and does not need further clothing contributions. No clothing will be collected at the Schnuck stores.

CAR DAMAGES FENCE

Tommy L. Hughes, 945 Niedringhaus Ave., was arrested for leaving the scene of an accident that occurred at 10 p.m. Monday on Chestnut Street. His northbound auto allegedly failed to make a turn onto St. Louis Street, instead crossing that street and damaging 16 feet of the American Steel Foundries' cyclone fence.

Handicraft & Bake Sale Saturday

Colonial Haven Nursing Home, 3909 Stearns Ave., hosted its first "Cookie Monster Day" during the weekend. The invitations to local children to come and bake Christmas cookies with the "grandmas" of Colonial, met with roaring success, a spokesman said.

More than 20 dozen cookies were "created" by 30 children and 10 "grandmas" with the voluntary assistance and guidance of eight to 10 nursing home staff members.

Several local food stores donated cookie ingredients. The day was filled with the Spirit of Christmas and merely proved, once again that "Love is Ageless," the spokesman said.

The home will be hosting a "Christmas Handicraft and Bake Sale" for the public Saturday in the front lobby. Proceeds from the events will assist in financing further planned Christmas activities.

Donations of sale items will be greatly appreciated. Those with items to donate may contact Aletta Walker at 931-3900, the spokesman said.

In loving memory of my darling wife, Bertha J. McKinney who departed this life, Dec. 11th. 1980.
*It matters not where I go,
it matters not what I say or do,
there is always someone by my side,
and that someone, dear, is you.*
Each hour of the day, each step of the way,
I'm walking hand and hand with you;
I see your face in the morning sun—
at noon you are with me yet.
But when darkness follows the setting sun, comes the hours I can never forget,
when God reached down from heaven above and took the hand of the one I loved.
All I have left is "Sweet Memories" of happy days and months and years, and the interest I pay on "our loan of love"
is measured only by my heart full of tears.
When God sees fit to call me home—
to be by your side, sweetheart,
He will unite us again in eternal love, and never, never, never, never
I will love you till the end of time, darling.
Sadly missed by your husband,
Edward C. McKinney

A RARE TREAT. Frank Ravanelli of Ravanelli's Restaurant shows 35 pounds of Corrine mushrooms he found in Green County. Ravanelli said the mushrooms are a considered a delicacy, but he will not serve them in the restaurant, since 35 pounds would not be enough. The mushrooms, which grow as large as 60 pounds per clump, grow only at the bottom of white or black oak trees.

Local Red Cross volunteers given hearty thanks

The Tri-City Chapter of the American Red Cross volunteer recognition dinner Monday was a celebration of the group's new headquarters and a salute to the thousands of service hours volunteers have contributed.

Gwendolyn O'Guin, executive secretary, told 150 gathered at the Granite City Township Hall that the 10-year lease on the former St. Joseph's School, 2100 Edison Ave., represents the first adequate facility here since the local chapter was organized 75 years ago.

Venice Township Supervisor Christ Pashoff, a board member, was given a plaque for his assistance and that of the township during the three-week blitz renovation of the center last May. Pashoff was instrumental in the township's decision to supply needed seed money for paint and window replacements.

"It's always a privilege to help our community," Pashoff said after the presentation from evening's host, William Patton, board vice chairman.

Credit also was given to David Partney, board chairman, for his role during negotiations with the Catholic Springfield diocese, owner of the building. Those talks capped an intensive two-year search for larger quarters, while the organization, lacking funds for a move, operated from a basement office.

"I went out and bought the reddest red I could find for the (new) front door," Miss O'Guin said proudly. "You think people know where we are now?"

Missing from Monday's affair, which combined the tradition annual dinner and

RED CROSS REWARD. Venice Township Supervisor Christ Pashoff, right, holds a plaque of appreciation just received from William Patton, vice chairman of the Tri-City Chapter of the American Red Cross. separate volunteer appreciation party, were about a dozen officials from the regional St. Louis Bi-State Chapter, who were coordinating flood relief efforts. According to Dorothy Smith, local secretary, the Tri-City Chapter also was involved in offering housing and storage to Metro-East residents. The Red Cross has a standing contract with the St. Louis Area Support Center (Army depot) to provide room for those services.

Copies of the local chapter's annual report were distributed at the dinner, and Miss O'Guin used the occasion to review the various programs offered here by the American Red Cross, praising the more than 270 volunteers involved. With the exception of providing a channel of communications between military and civilian life, a service handled by office personnel, volunteers serve as first aid instructors, drivers, blood drive assistants and swim instructors for handicapped persons.

During the last year, the chapter — receiving no funding from the government — served 325 cases related to the military and dependents; issued 149 multimedia first aid certificates; 359 cardiopulmonary resuscitation certificates and 29 other first aid certificates; collected more than 2,300 units of blood, and provided instructions to 24 in the Handicapped Swim Program.

Miss O'Guin called the patient transportation program here "very unusual." Unlike most other Red Cross groups, the Tri-City Chapter has initiated a program to transport those sick and in need to area hospitals. About 20 volunteer drivers assist those without their own sources of transportation.

Local 67 nearing goal for turkeys

United Steelworkers Local 67 conducted its second "Turkey Collection" at the gates of Granite City Steel, Monday and netted $561, to be used to buy turkeys for Local 67's members on extended layoff.

With $770 raised at the first gate collection and $561 at the Dec. 6 collection, plus donations from retirees and other outside donations, the local now has $1,716 of its $2,000 goal.

In addition to the turkeys, a toy collection has been under way to help provide toys for laid-off members' children, who might otherwise receive few, if any, toys from "Santa."

The distribution date is Dec. 21 at Local 67's Union Hall.

GUN, WATCHES GONE

In a burglary at the home of Scott Wright, 2072 Fourteenth St., reported at 10:30 a.m. Tuesday, the intruder broke a window in the rear door with a broom handle to gain entry. Two bedrooms and other areas of the house were ransacked and among the items stolen were four watches, one with diamonds on the face, a .25-caliber German automatic weapon and a number of coins. An inventory was being taken at the dwelling.

3 CHARGES FILED

Roy E. Valencia, 31, of 2228 Terminal Ave. was arrested at 9:35 p.m. Monday for trespassing at St. Elizabeth Medical Center and for battery (kicking a security guard). At the police building, Valencia also was booked on a previous warrant alleging driving with a suspended license.

REDUCE HEATING COSTS!

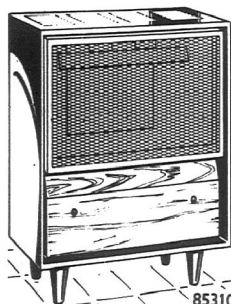

You can reduce home heating costs with THE HEAT EXTRACTOR® System . . . exclusive at Sears! This innovative New addition to your home heating system develops additional warm air to pre-heat incoming air. This means less operating time for your furnace . . . which also means less money spent on gas bills.

Energy Tax Credit for qualified products applies to those products when installed in a principal residence built before April 20, 1977. The credit amounts to 15% of the first $2,000 spent on any qualifying product before January 1, 1986 (a maximum credit of $300). But at least $67 must be spent on qualifying products.

Qualifies for Energy Tax Credit
